SPECIAL WIRE TO THE NEWS.

FROM THE LAKES TO THE OCEAN.

Bill for a Preliminary Inquiry Regarding Deep Water-ways.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Mr. Wise of Virginia has reported to the House from the committee on inter-state and foreign commerce the Senate bill authorizing a preliminary inquiry concerning deep water-ways between the great lakes and the Atlantic ocean. Mr. Wise in his report says that the measure offers a practical plan to enter upon a work that must commend itself to the House as being of the greatest importance. The union of the great lakes with the seaboard by a deep water-way, one that will carry ocean-going vessels, has for years been the subject of discussion in conventions called especially for that purpose, and in the public press, and its importance in cheapening the cost of transportation between the interior of the country and the seaboard will be so far reaching as to affect favorably every portion of the country. For these reasons the passage of the measure by the House is urged.

ANOTHER BIG CLOTHING TRADE STRIKE.

Children's Jacket Makers Likely to Go Out in a Few Days.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The Herald says this morning that another big clothing trade strike, like those which have been keeping the east side in a turmoil for the last year, will commence in a few days. This time the trade to be affected is that of making children's jackets. This gives employment to about two thousand persons, and the complicated relations of the various rival unions will probably draw many thousand more into the fight. The children's jacket makers' union is connected with the Knights of Labor, and several weeks ago the United Garment Workers of America served notice upon it that it must connect itself with them or a rival organization would be started. General Secretary Riechers of the United Garment Workers notified the children's jacket makers yesterday that unless they did so he would immediately proceed to organize a rival union, and that he would notify the contractors that the United Garment Workers did not approve their strike. The children's jacket makers' union has formed a combination with the buttonhole makers' union. A complicated series of strikes may result, which will involve at least twenty-five thousand persons.

DEFRAUDED HIS FRIEND'S WIDOW.

Another Incident in McKane's Career of Crime.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Referee William G. Choate, in his report to the supreme court of Kings county this morning, on the estate of Paul Bauer, decided that John Y. McKane, the former chief of police of Gravesend, who is now in Sing Sing, while acting as administrator of the estate of the late Paul Bauer, tried to swindle the widow of Bauer out of that property; that he appropriated large sums of money, amounting to a big fortune, from the estate to his own use, and that when the penniless widow and the infant daughter of the deceased begged him, after he was behind the bars, to restore them to their rights, he refused. Referee Choate decided that McKane, having defrauded Mrs. Bauer into letting him get the legal title to the property, must turn it all over to her and give an accounting within sixty days.

Paul Bauer died January 2, 1892. He and McKane had been intimate friends. The widow, when she was made administratrix, had McKane appointed co-administrator, and took charge of the estate, which was worth between $150,000 and $300,000. On it was a mortgage for $81,000 and the property was sold to pay this. McKane bought it in for $500 more than that, in his own name. In explanation, he said this was done to enable him to raise funds the more easily, but that he would turn it over to the widow as soon as all debts were paid. He soon paid off the debts, and the estate began to yield a large income, which the referee says amounted to some $20,000 to $30,000 a year. McKane built business houses, bought real state and erected flats. In all he gave Mrs Bauer only $3,700. On the day after his conviction Mrs. Bauer visited him at the jail and he then said to her, when she pleaded for her property: "Go away; I bought the property for myself; you are not entitled to a cent." Afterwards it was learned that McKane was getting ready to mortgage the estate, to get money to prosecute an appeal from his conviction. Counsel for Mrs. Bauer put a stop to this by filing a lis pendens. Then this action was begun. After days it was sent to Referee Choate, who decided as stated. The property is worth now, the referee says, about $300,000. It will all go to the widow and her daughter.

LAST OF THE THIRTEEN.

General Deficiency Appropriation Bill Reported to the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The general deficiency appropriation bill, the last of the thirteen regular appropriation bills, was completed by the appropriations committee and reported to the House today. The appropriations made by the measure are to supply the deficiencies for the year 1895 and prior years, and amount to $6,518,574. In addition to the appropriation made by this bill, $2,364,231 has been appropriated by the present Congress to supply deficiencies.

No appropriation to pay the claims arising out of the Behring sea controversy is made by the bill. Secretary Gresham, through the Treasury Department, sent to the House on the thirteenth an estimate of $425,000 "for the payment by the United States in full satisfaction of all claims which may be made by Great Britain for damages growing out of the controversy as to fur seals in Behring sea or the seizure of British vessels engaged in taking seals in those waters." This estimate was considered by the committee, but owing to the lateness of its receipt was not incorporated in the bill.

WINTER IN THE SOUTH.

Snow, Ice and Extreme Cold from Alabama to Arkansas.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 16.—At Birmingham, Ala., the snow is two feet deep, and seventy families, suffering from extreme cold, have been located there. In the country thereabouts cattle are dying in droves. At Arkansas City, Ark., the river is blocked with ice and many steamers, tugs and tows are frozen fast. At Winona, Miss., a farmer was frozen to death. At Aberdeen, Miss., a man on the Mobile & Ohio railroad was frozen to death yesterday.

EXPLOSION OF A MAGAZINE.

Fifty Soldiers Killed in a Fort at Tokio, Formosa.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—A Central News despatch from Shanghai says the magazine of the Saracen fort at Tokio, Formosa, has exploded, destroying the fort, killing fifty soldiers and injuring many others. The explosion also damaged a number of houses and injured many of their inmates.

Suicide Popular Among Chinese Commanders.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—A despatch to the Pall Mall Gazette says that the Chinese Commodore Liu and General Chang also committed suicide, at the same time that Admiral Ting killed himself.

Germany Favors an International Monetary Conference.

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—The Reichstag today adopted by an overwhelming majority a resolution favoring an international monetary conference, in accordance with the views expressed by Count Von Mirbach.

IN CONGRESS.

Lively Discussion in the Senate on the Silver Issue.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—In the Senate this morning Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) offered a resolution, which was agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to national banks that have, within the last ten years, acted as depositories of public moneys; whether interest has been paid, and the terms and conditions of the contracts.

Mr. Stewart (Pop., Nev.) introduced a bill to restore bi-metallism. It was read a first time, its second reading going over one day.

The concurrent resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.), declaring it to be the sense of Congress that the policy of the government requires that its efforts be steadily directed to the establishment of a safe system of bi-metallism, wherein gold and silver may be maintained at a parity, was laid before the Senate.

A very important discussion was started by the resolution of Senator Hill. Mr. Sherman offered a substitute, declaring it to be the established policy of the United States to maintain gold and silver at a parity according to their coinage ratio, and that if at any time silver coin could not be kept at parity with gold coin, the bonds of the United States, now or hereafter issued, which are by their terms payable in coin, shall be paid in gold coin.

The discussion was begun by Mr. Hill, who advocated his own resolution, and said that he wanted Congress to say to the world that the policy of the United States is, not to maintain the single silver standard or the single gold standard, but the double standard, and that, if there should be any disparity between the two metals, the obligations of the government will be paid in the best coin in use. He believed that his resolution ought to receive the approval of the friends of gold and of the friends of silver, and it certainly ought to receive the approval of the friends of bi-metallism. The step that ought to be taken is the cancellation of the greenbacks; but that is a step impossible at this session, "by reason of differences between the Senate and the other house, and differences of both houses with the President."

Mr. Hill was followed by Mr. Wolcott (Rep., Col.), who said that Mr. Hill had been "threshing old straw." The House, he said, had disposed yesterday, so far as this session is concerned, of the subject of the issue of endorsement of gold bonds. "The President's wanton attack on the credit of the United States," Mr. Wolcott declared passionately, "has been the most disastrous occurrence of this generation. Our nest was befouled by the man who should have stood for our credit. The President entered into a secret negotiation with the Rothschilds of Europe, whereby he should give them long bonds at excessive rates, to the discredit of our country and its finances." He believed that the suffering and poverty which prevail all over the world will never cease until silver as well as gold is made the standard of value.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—In the House today House bill directing the Secretary of the Interior to offer for sale isolated and fractional tracts of public lands, less than a quarter-section in extent, at $2.50 an acre or more, amended by the Senate so as to reduce the minimum price to $1.25 an acre, was taken up and agreed to.

Senate amendments were concurred in to the joint resolution declaring it to be the sense of Congress that the Guiana boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela, which has existed since 1837, should be submitted to and settled by friendly arbitration.

Mr. Breckinridge (Dem., Ky.) reported the general deficiency bill for the year ending June, 1895, and previous years, and gave notice that he would call it up immediately after the naval appropriation bill was out of the way.

The private pension bills acted upon favorably at the session of the House last night were passed.

SIOUX CITY'S TEMPERANCE CRUSADE.

Women, One Hundred Strong, Make a Tour of the Saloons.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Feb. 16.—The crusade of the Women's Christian Temperance Union against the saloons of the city was continued yesterday. The women, to the number of nearly one hundred, met at the Whitefield church and marched down town to make another round of the saloons. They went to about a dozen of them, and at all but two or three of them were admitted. At those where they were locked out they stopped and sang hymns, ending each time with the doxology. The chief of police had given orders that they should not be allowed to obstruct the sidewalks, and they marched most of the time in the middle of the streets.

After an hour of their round they went to the city hall to complain to Mayor Fletcher of being forced off the walks. They were followed by a howling mob, that filled the streets and surged over the sidewalks. The office was locked, and the mayor, who had been warned, was not to be found. The women declare that they have legal advice, under which they will close the saloons that fail to comply with the strict provisions of the law, and that they will commence suing out injunctions Monday unless their demands are granted.

White Ribboners in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—At the convocation of white ribboners today, Miss L. S. Wightman, corresponding secretary of the Women's Christian Temperance Union for the District of Columbia, delivered an interesting address on "Special Needs of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at the Nation's Capital, and How They May Be Met." She said the one pressing need of the union at the nation's capital is a home.

Mrs. Lieberman Convicted of Arson.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Ida Lieberman, charged with arson, who were locked up all night, came into court about noon today, and reported having found Mrs. Lieberman guilty, as charged in the indictment. The woman on hearing the verdict dropped to the floor in a faint, and when she recovered she created a scene by her screams and moans. She was remanded for sentence.

BRAVE REVENUE MARINE.

When you see a revenue cutter riding at anchor in harbor, yards squared as if with the aid of a spirit level, all brass work shining like diamonds, where she is black, black as ebony, and where she is white, whiter than the driven snow, a saucy pennant dickering from the mainmast and the gridiron set in a knowing way at the peak, you are apt to conclude that her officers and crew have nothing to do but keep their trim craft, something between a yacht and a cruiser, as ship-shape and clever-looking as possible. But wait until the storm clouds begin to rise and the winds to blow, and you will see the revenue cutter all activity, weigh anchor, and run out to sea right in the face of the tempest, perhaps the only vessel in port to do so. Far out on the stormy sea she gives this vessel a tow, sends a boat on board that to help her out of a scrape, and in fifty ways is useful to the storm-driven craft.

Cutter Crawford, on duty in Chesapeake bay, aided during the recent blizzard thirteen vessels, valued irrespective of cargoes at $134,000 and manned by one hundred and thirty-nine men. Some of these vessels and men were saved only by the timely help of the Crawford from undergoing the final tragedy of storm and sea. Many other cutters have done equally well this hard winter, and all of them set examples of unostentatious devotion to duty. The revenue marine deserves well of the country. Under its plainer uniforms are found as stout hearts and clear heads as the navy itself can boast. Honor to the revenue marine, and if it is ever absorbed in the navy let us hope its officers and men will be given places commensurate with their skill and devotion.—[Boston Transcript.

WHERE THE BIRDS GO.

The robin in winter is sometimes seen in the latitude of St. Louis. He goes southward as far as into eastern Mexico. Sometimes the meadow-lark may be seen in northern Illinois during cold weather, but he is very plentiful in the Southern states. Long before severe frosts come the orioles and bobolinks hie them South, and do not return until grass and leaves are expanding. Blackbirds also throng the Southern states, and some of them go as far as the table-lands of Mexico. Of that numerous family, the warblers, the black-throated blue warbler winters in Florida, while the yellow-throat and the palm warbler have been found to winter in southern Illinois. The catbird goes as far south as Panama and Cuba, and the mocking-bird state largely in the Southern states, although it sometimes goes to the Antilles and the Bahamas during the winter. The swallows are to be found in Florida, and the purple martin in Mexico; the ruby-throat flies among the orange groves of Florida, while the whip-poor-will may be found as far south-west as Guatemala. The thrashers and the wrens do not go so far south as some other birds. The wood thrush winters in Guatemala, the hermit thrush along the Gulf coast, and the cuckoo passes to the highlands of Mexico. The rose-breasted grosbeak visits Cuba, the indigo bunting reaches southern Mexico, the golden plover flies as far as Patagonia, while the upland plover makes itself at home in Brazil or Peru. The more brilliant the plumage of a bird the farther south it migrates, and even those birds which are the most resident—like the jay, the grouse and the quail—move in winter to a milder climate.—[Golden Days.

IN THE SOUTH DAKOTA LEGISLATURE.

Mr. Joseph Donahue, brother of Mrs. J. S. Wixson of this city and brother-in-law of Mr. S. Jacob, who lived here several years with Mr. Jacob, went to Fort Pierre, South Dakota, about five years ago, and has become a very successful lawyer, of the firm of Carter & Donahue. Last fall he was elected to the legislature, where he is evidently making an excellent record. The Fort Pierre Fairplay, in a recent issue, said editorially: "Stanley county can congratulate herself upon being represented in the legislature at this session by a man who is thoroughly qualified and in every way competent. No notice of leading men in the house of representatives appears but the name of Hon. Joseph Donahue is conspicuously in the foreground, and Stanley county has good reason to feel proud of her rising representative."

In another part of the paper the Fairplay said: "Hon. Joseph Donahue is classed among the leading men of this legislature by the papers of the state, and he is unquestionably making a good impression on his associates in the house, as they all speak of him and his work in the most complimentary manner. His bill defining what is meant by intoxicating liquors was before the house yesterday, and was the cause of its being the most interesting day of the present session."

STRUNG ALONG WALLS.

Huge Petition at the White Ribbon Convention.

Miss Willard's Address Delivered by Proxy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The convention of white ribboners held in Convention hall here was greeted by an assemblage of 4000 people.

The hall was draped with the monster polyglot petition for liquor prohibition, which was a marked feature of commendation.

MISS FRANCES E. WILLARD.

A unanimous expression of regret met the announcement that Miss Frances E. Willard, the pioneer of the cause, was absent on account of sickness, but her address was read by her secretary. The subject was:

"The Origin of the Petition."

"Home protection is the key word of woman's work. Manufacturers seek the tariff for the purpose of protection to industries, adult and infant; trades unions are founded to protect the wage workers from the aggressions of capital, and corporations and monopolies from the encroachment of competition; but 10,000 groups of loyal hearted mothers and wives, sisters and daughters have formed for the purpose of acting in organized capacity as protectors of the home, the tempted youth and the little child.

"For this cause, there are bands of ribbon white around the world, and this polyglot petition is but our prayer that tells out a purpose of our hearts and has been wrought into a plea before the nations of the world. We expect to present this petition to representatives of every civilized government.

"We prize the polyglot petition work, because it has afforded a nucleus around which women may rally. Because we are patriots, we have come to the capital of our native land to present this petition first of all in the country in which it originated, and which has sent out all the white ribbon missionaries who have secured its circulation in foreign countries. We present it tonight to members of the United States senate and house of representatives, and we expect to secure a hearing, with the petition for its basis, before committees of those two bodies.

"The greatest number of names, endorsements and attestations have been secured in our country, and next to ours, in Great Britain. The signatures come to hand in 50 languages. Besides these, there are hundreds of thousands of names yet waiting

To Be Added to the Long Roll.

Nor will we ever rest until we have 2,000,000 actual names, besides the present 5,000,000 additional signers by attestation.

"The document has been circulated in 50 nations, and in the three ways stated has received 7,000,000 signatures. The total number of actual signatures from outside the United States is 450,000. Great Britain leads the procession with its 350,000. Canada comes next with 67,000. Burmah follows with 32,000, and Ceylon, Australia, Denmark, China, India and Mexico follow, with all the others coming after.

"Though this is a woman's petition, it should be noted that it is endorsed by perhaps 1,000,000 men—some by personal signatures, but most by the attestation of the officers of societies to which they belong. Thus the Salvation Army has endorsed it with its 3,000,000 members; the Good Templars have put their 570,000 names upon it by attestations; the Universal Peace union has signed it in this way, and innumerable societies and conventions have swelled the list; the United Society of Christian Endeavor has alone added 2,000,000 names, while innumerable churches and church societies will swell the total by 1,000,000 more. Even from Ceylon come the signatures of 27,000 men.

"It is more than 10 years since the petition was written; if I had to rewrite it I should assuredly include the enfranchisement of workmen among the requests it specifies."

The Petition.

For God and Home and Every Land. Polyglot Petition of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Addressed to the Governments of the World:

Honored Rulers, Representatives and Brothers:

We, your petitioners, although belonging to the physically weaker sex, are strong of heart to love our homes, our native land and the world's family of nations.

We know that clear brains and pure hearts make honest lives and happy homes, and that by these the nations prosper, and the time is brought nearer when the world shall be at peace. We know that indulgence in alcohol and opium, and in other vices which disgrace our social life, makes misery for all the world, and most of all for us and for our children.

We know that stimulants and opiates are sold under legal guarantees, which make the governments partners in the traffic by accepting as revenue a portion of the profits, and we know with shame that they are often forced by treaty upon populations either ignorant or unwilling.

We know that law might do much, now left undone, to raise the moral tone of society and render vice difficult.

We have no power to prevent these great iniquities beneath which the whole world groans, but you have power to redeem the honor of the nations from an indefensible complicity.

We, therefore, come to you with the united voices of representative women of every land, beseeching you to raise the standard of the laws to that of Christian morals, to strip away the safeguards and sanctions of the state from the drink traffic and the opium trade, and to protect our homes by the total prohibition of these curses of civilization throughout all the territory over which your government extends.

At the close of the reading of Miss Willard's address, Miss Belle Kearney read an address to men. She was followed by Dr. Lunn of London and Mrs. Baker.

TRADE BACKWARD.

Improving Weather Fails to Stimulate Markets In General.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Bradstreet's today says: The milder and pleasanter weather, following the severe storms and extremely low temperature, has, with few exceptions, failed to stimulate orders for seasonable goods or the distributive movement generally.

Exceptions include a revival of demand in a few lines at Boston and New York, and in drugs, leather and paper at Philadelphia, and in general merchandise at Savannah and Jacksonville, the only southern cities reporting trade better and mercantile collections good.

Dun's Review.

R. G. Dun Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Exports of gold and withdrawals from the treasury have been almost entirely stopped by the contract for purchases of gold from Messrs. Belmont and Morgan.

For the moment, business only waits to know whether sales of American securities and withdrawals of gold from the treasury have been lastingly stopped by the remarkable increase of confidence.

The two obstacles which block the path just now are exceeding cheapness of farm products and restricted operations in industries. There has been no gain in prices of farm products on the whole.

Corn is nominally ½ cent higher, but with an insignificant movement, while wheat is ½ cent lower for the week.

Cotton remains unchanged.

Few words tell the whole story: The corn crop is undeniably short, though probably a much larger supply than official reports indicate; wheat and cotton supplies are so far beyond the world's demands that extreme low prices are natural, and any speculation for advance is greatly handicapped. Restricted purchases by the west and south naturally result.

Perhaps this influence is felt as much in the boot and shoe industry as in any other, for while only a part, though a large part, of the various qualities has been advanced in price, the distinct curtailment of orders in others is especially obvious. Leather continues strong in all grades and receipts

Are on the Whole Closely Taken.

The output of pig iron Feb. 1 was 167,291 tons, against 165,414 weekly Jan. 1, but the stocks remaining unsold are 718,073 tons, against 645,458 Jan. 1, and indicates a decrease of 16,637 tons in actual consumption weekly during the month of January. Severe storms in February have further curtailed production.

Sales of steel rails were only 150,000 tons in January, but there appears a better inquiry for some finished products, especially in wire, wire rods, nails and barbed wire.

Pig iron is unchanged in price here and at the west, though northern sales are pressed, and the demand for bar iron is about the same.

Lake copper is quoted at 9.75 cents.

Continued dullness is reported in cottons, and a reduction of prices by the Amoskeag mills causes some hesitation. In the main the works are well employed, but with extremely scanty profits and considerable doubt whether a market will be found for accumulating stock of some goods.

Trade in woolens is by no means satisfactory, though fairly large in volume in mediums and low grades, but prices have been generally reduced, and competition with cheap foreign goods is felt somewhat more. Sales of wool continue within about a sixth of a week's normal supply for eastern mills, amounting to 5,068,400 pounds, of which 3,595,600 were domestic. Fine fleece is not stronger and sales of Ohio XX are quoted at 16½ cents.

Failures for the week were 270 in the United States against 323 last year.

The total number of business failures reported from the Dominion in the past week is 39, compared with 51 last week, 47 in the week a year ago, and 44 two years ago.

Took Prussic Acid.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Dr. Carlos B. Dunlevy committed suicide last night by taking an ounce of prussic acid. Dr. Dunlevy's habits had estranged him from his family. He was 30 years old. Recently he had been on a lecture tour. In his possession was found a bill on a Providence hotel for 10 days' board for a woman, amounting to $24.

Showed Sympathy For Strikers.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 16.—Assistant Corporation Counsel Young has been granted an order directing Police Justice Quigley to show cause why he should not be removed from office for showing sympathy with the strikers in the way in which he disposed of complaints against them.

Made a Fine Display.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The 10th annual convention of the Architectural League of New York was opened to the public yesterday. Architects, artists and sculptors from all parts of the country were present, and nearly 10,000 pieces of art work were on exhibition.

Reached Land In Safety.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16.—A party of Baltimoreans have been shipwrecked on Roanoke island, off the coast of North Carolina. The steamer was caught in severe storms. The passengers took to the lifeboats and reached land.

American Bonds In Good Demand.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—In its financial article, this morning, The Times says that American bonds were yesterday freely dealt in, and prices at one time touched 1¾ premium. At the close the premium was 1¼.

'Way Down South In Sunny Georgia.

SAVANNAH, Feb. 16.—Two inches of snow fell here yesterday. Business has been practically suspended, the people giving themselves up to the unusual pleasure of sleighing.

Babcock Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The senate in executive session confirmed Henry H. Babcock of Connecticut to be collector of customs for the district of New Haven.

The Erratic Gulf Stream.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16.—The steamer Memantic, Captain Mann, reports that the current of the gulf stream has deflected fully 100 miles to westward.

ASSAILANT UNKNOWN.

Merchant at Southington, Conn., Shot Down In a Public Street.

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Feb. 16.—Charles Rugg, aged 65, a well-known hardware merchant of this place, was shot and probably fatally injured at 8 o'clock last night while on his way home from his place of business.

The scene of the shooting was on Bristol street, almost directly under an electric light, and was one of the most daring assaults ever attempted here. The neighborhood is thickly settled, and there were several persons on the street at the time.

The only clew to Mr. Rugg's assailant is a pair of shoes and a shirt, found in a bundle near the scene of the assault, which, the police have found out, were purchased by Edward Crawford yesterday afternoon. The officers are now in search of him. Crawford was connected with a stabbing in this place about a year ago.

Chronicle's Dander Is Up.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—In a leader this morning, The Chronicle says Ambassador Bayard, when he does not know, ought not to prophesy on the subject of Great Britain's acceptance of the new rules to prevent collisions at sea. The idea that because the Washington or any other conference, composed for the most part of men without practical knowledge, has come to a certain conclusion, therefore the world must conform thereto, is preposterous. We fancy that Mr. Bayard will learn as much by the time the parliamentary committee has ended its sittings.

Genuine Tokens of Regard.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 16.—United States Minister Gray's body left here today for Indianapolis, accompanied by Mrs. Gray and Bayard Gray. President Diaz accompanies the body, with a brigade of soldiers, to the line. All national flags throughout the republic of Mexico will remain at half-mast until the body has crossed the Rio Grande river. The German minister has asked his colleagues to let their flags remain at half-mast until the body has crossed the frontier. The city is in mourning.

SENATE SILVERITES.

Will Prevent an Agreement Being Reached on Pending Financial Bills.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The decisive action of the house on the gold bond bill terminates the contest in that body, and nothing now remains but the issue of the 4 per cent bonds in accordance with the terms of the contract, and at an additional expense of $16,000,000 to the government.

After this emphatic vote, in which a clear majority of both Democrats and Republicans put themselves on record as condemning the course of the administration in this matter, nothing in the way of relief can be expected from the senate, and it is now doubtful whether any serious attempt will be made in that body to give the question consideration.

The negotiations and consultations which have been in progress looking to an agreement to reach a vote on the pending financial bills in the senate has been abandoned for the present, for the reason that the silver senators on the Republican side, headed by Teller, Dubois and Wolcott, have reached a determination to permit nothing to be done.

Senator Jones, who has charge of the unlimited coinage bill, since the action in the house, appears to be more determined than ever to call up his free coinage bill. He believes that the motion will carry. If anybody wants to filibuster, he says, against a final vote on the measure they can do so. He is willing for prompt decision.

The reply of Secretary Carlisle makes it clear to the Republicans that the only trouble with the treasury has been its lack of revenue, and that this trouble is likely to continue under existing laws for many months yet.

It can easily be seen from Secretary Carlisle's statement, says Senators Allison and Aldrich, that the passage of the bill requested by the president, to make this last issue of bonds payable in gold, would have only complicated the situation. Another bond issue in the near future, these senators think, is absolutely certain.

Thistle and Shamrock.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—The Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish society held its sixth annual banquet at the Hotel Bellevue last night. The speakers of the evening were Secretary of the Navy Herbert, United States Senator Manderson of Nebraska, and Representatives Hatch of Missouri and Grosvenor of Ohio. Colonel A. K. McClure presided.

Befriended by an Unknown.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—At a meeting of the friends of Barnard college, Treasurer Plimpton stated $100,000 had been anonymously contributed to the building fund, with the stipulation that a new college be erected within 1,000 yards of Columbia college. It was stated that the professors' salaries had also been contributed anonymously.

A Timely Suggestion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The bill for the creation of an industrial commission of 21 persons which is intended to arbitrate labor difficulties was reported in the senate yesterday. It is estimated that the aggregate loss to all concerned on account of strikes during the past six years was $98,526,559.

Damaging Evidence.

TORONTO, Feb. 16.—Detectives yesterday made a thorough search of the cellar of the warehouse where W. C. Wills was killed and found a chisel and a hammer, both blood-stained. They will be used as exhibits in the murder charge against Harry Hyams and his brother.

What Is His Opinion?

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Emperor William, in conversation with Theodore Runyon, the American ambassador, on the subject of the economic situation in the United States, expressed himself as greatly interested in the currency and tariff questions.

Getting Away From Taxes.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—An application for a referee in the suit of the heirs of the late Jay Gould to obtain exemption from taxation of certain personal property inherited under the will of the dead millionaire was granted yesterday.

Ready For the Jury.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 16.—The testimony in the case against George M. Irwin, the discretionary pool operator, for false pretenses, was closed yesterday and the arguments were made. There was no sensational evidence.

Giving Them a Chance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—A favorable report has been authorized on the bill extending the time within which soldiers who are charged with desertion may make application to the secretary of war and obtain relief.

Chen-Yuen Alone Remains.

CHE-FOO, Feb. 16.—Negotiations for the surrender of Wei-Hai-Wai to the Japanese have been pending since Tuesday. The Chen-Yuen is the only remaining effective vessel of the Chinese fleet.

Knocked Down For $450,000.

CHARLESTON, Feb. 16.—The Charleston, Sumter and Northern railroad was sold at public auction yesterday to W. E. Elliott for $450,000. The Atlantic Coast line system is the real purchaser.

Power of an Avalanche.

VIENNA, Feb. 16.—An avalanche yesterday buried several peasants at Borszczow, Galicia. Before they could be extricated all were suffocated.

Don't Know When They're Beaten.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 16.—The trolley strikers met last night and every phase of the situation was fully discussed. It was decided to continue the fight.

In Hard Luck.

HALIFAX, Feb. 16.—Steamer Oakdene Sandal, from Hamburg, with a cargo of salt and cement, arrived here with machinery badly deranged and short of coal. The vessel had a tempestuous experience. There was so little coal in the bunkers that all the available wood about the ship was commenced to be fed to the furnaces.

On a New Basis.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The National Shoe and Leather bank was reorganized yesterday by the retirement of four directors and the election of four men in their places. Last November it was discovered that Samuel C. Seeley, in collusion with Frederick Baker, had robbed the bank of the sum of $351,000.

How Long Will It Live?

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Feb. 16.—J. McParlin of this city, secretary of the national and the state committees of the People's party, states that about March 4 he expects the birth of a new national party. The platform of the new party, according to Mr. McParlin, will be bi-metallism and protection.

How Miners Would Have It.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 16.—The United Mine Workers of America struck out a resolution to the effect that the strikes are failures, but agreed, as a means of limiting strikes to the minimum, that restriction of production and shorter hours are essential.

SEASONABLE NOTES.

Madame Roland might have found more committed in the name of Charity than Liberty if time and the guillotine had spared her till now. The relief committee of Washington have accepted the offer of a patent medicine company—who wish their goods advertised—of ten thousand powders to be sold at ten cents apiece, the receipts to be given to the poor for fuel money. This means a thousand dollars for the poor, advertising that will bring a good million dollars to the quacks, and an inestimable amount of damage to an inestimable number of people.

The patent medicine habit once started is of rapid growth. Like the vice of tippling, which it has largely replaced, its bad effects are felt by the children and the children's children, and do not end with the man who indulges in the secret compounds. These victims of the patent medicine people, and the source of the great fortunes they pile up, are the ignorant classes largely. With the educated and especially the cultured a flashy advertisement has little force. There is a feeling of nicety and refinement that makes one shrink from swallowing a powerful and unknown compound mixed by the ton in a factory and sold for the sole purpose of enriching an unscrupulous maker.

A recent visit to a New England town where one of the great fortunes of the country has been made in a few years through a patent medicine, and where the manufactory is still running full blast turning out the stuff which has been declared by competent chemists to be chiefly morphine and bad whiskey, opens one's eyes to the extent of this imposition. In the same town is another great manufactory, the home of a rival patent medicine, whose owner was only a short time since a poor and ignorant man, and is still without a suspicion of medical knowledge. Yet he already counts his fortune by the millions. It has been made entirely by selling at a dollar a bottle a few cents worth of stuff to the credulous who are moved by a quack's advertisements.

"Rivers of molasses and mountains of sugar you may have seen," said the friends of the talkative sailor, "but fish that fly—never!" There are always enough of these gullible, and at the same time suspicious of what is true, people to be found to keep the quacks flourishing with ease, and it seems a pity to aid them by taking from house to house, as they are doing in Washington, samples of patent medicine sold in the name of the King's Daughters, who with the mite societies are to distribute the money to the poor.

The near future may not furnish us a great poet, novelist or artist, but we will be content if the coming great man is a plumber. Think what a golden age it will be if the plumber of the twentieth century advertises after this fashion,

COMMON-SENSE PLUMBING ESTABLISHMENT.

This house runs all water pipes on the inner walls, and in protected places where there is no danger of freezing. In rare cases where a pipe must be run near the outer wall or in a cold cellar it is safely packed so as to be secure. With our system there is no necessity for running water all night, for carrying kerosene or gas stoves into the cellar on the approach of a cold spell, no expense for extra fires, no need of thawing out with boiling water and hot flatirons the morning after zero weather, and no burst pipes, flooded houses, days of shut-off water, and hours of agonized waiting for workmen who are overdriven with jobs caused by the freeze. House-owners may sleep in peace utterly indifferent to the plumbing whatever the temperature. The first expense of piping a house on our common sense system is not greater than the old way. The after expense is only what comes from wear.

BLANK BLANK,
No. 1 Water Street, Newport.

"Ah, twenty years! It takes all meaning from a name!"

Matthew Arnold did not have the sandwich in his mind when he wrote the above, but it applies. The sandwich of twenty years back was as different from that of today as one thing can be from another. Of old the sandwich was a combination of two thickish slices of crusty bread, buttered, and a slice of meat, preferably ham or corn-beef. This was the sandwich of Mugoy Junction and of our rural picnic. In its best state this edible was thick and chunky, and after the first bite left with ragged edges of bread and meat that did not match, and sometimes the whole filling pulled out with the first mouthful.

In contrast behold the sandwich of today. The bread is cut in thin and even slices with the crusts removed. If meat is used it is ground to a paste and mixed with the butter, and the preparation is spread between two slices of bread, and the whole is an homogeneous mass. Two deft cuts with the knife severs this into three three-cornered sandwiches delicate and dainty enough to tempt any appetite. But this is the commonplace sandwich of the hour. For one of the fancy kinds the cook makes a highly seasoned Tartar sauce and chops and stirs into it a few olives, and uses this as the filling mixture, cutting the sandwiches into small rounds with a biscuit cutter. Variations beyond number can be made with a good sauce as a base. One of the choice sandwiches has deviled roe for a foundation, and one of the best is the oyster sandwich. There is a regular and intricate rule for this last, but a simple and easy way to make the filling is to cook the oysters in their own liquor till they curl, then chop them, and stir them into a highly seasoned mayonnaise dressing that has a suspicion of onion and more than a suspicion of cayenne in it. The bread for this and all sandwiches is to be without crust, and whatever the shape it must be small. The three-cornered sandwich is always a good cut.

It should be a comfort to forever parted and unhappy lovers to remember that Dora in David Copperfield is drawn from Dickens's first love, and that though he never met her in after life without "wandering away over the ashes of all that youth and hope in the wildest manner," he yet made use of her, as her years increased and character developed, as the model for the ridiculous and exasperating Flora Finching of "Little Dorrit."

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the United Congregational Church gave a very successful entertainment in the chapel on Pelham street last evening. The rooms were given an attractive and home-like appearance by an abundance of rugs, standard lamps and small tables, and a pleasing program, consisting of vocal solos by Miss Hattie J. Hayes and Miss Florence M. Hammett, piano solo by Master Willie Rutherford, and readings by Mr. Gardner B. Perry, Miss Elizabeth Dring and Mr. B. F. Brown, was given. The guests, who included a large number of members of the church and congregation, were received by Miss Allman, president of the society; Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Brownell, Mrs. Heath and Mrs. Allan. Each attendant brought a bag in which was a sum of money representing at least the number of years of each one's life. Some were not content to limit their donations to the small sum which would indicate their age and made very liberal donations. The bags received contained nearly $125, and several which were sent out have not yet been heard from, so that the result of the entertainment will be the addition of a large sum of money to the society's treasury. After the formal program, which was presided over by Mr. E. P. Allan, refreshments, including sandwiches, cake, tea and chocolate, were served by the committee, and an hour was spent in social conversation.

THE CITY HALL COMMITTEE.

The committee appointed by the City Council to select a site for a new city hall will hold a public meeting at the State House Monday evening, to give all citizens an opportunity to express their preferences for a site, and say whatever else they desire regarding a new city hall. The committee at a previous meeting received a number of offers of sites, some of which, it is understood, are considered very favorable, but the proposals did not include several sites which have been looked upon with the greatest favor and are desired for the consideration of the committee. The members of the committee apparently realize the magnitude of their labors, and wish to obtain all the information possible before presenting to the City Council a proposition to be submitted to the tax payers. When the probable site shall have been decided upon, the committee will yet have to consider plans and estimates.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Rev. E. F. Jones, formerly pastor of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church, was in town today.

—Captain Harry C. Cushing, Fourth United States artillery, was on Thursday placed on the retired list of the army, with the rank of major.

—The tax assessors will begin Monday their public sessions at the City Hall for the assessment of taxes, meeting morning and afternoon until March 1.

—Mr. William Flansburg has resigned his position at the Perry House, and is now at the United States Hotel. He is considering several offers of positions in other hotels in this vicinity.

—A leading steam fitter estimates that the recent cold snap caused not far from one thousand breaks in water pipes and steam heating apparatus in this city, one plumber having filled nearly a hundred orders.

—At the annual meeting of the New York Yacht Club a letter was read from Mr. Ogden Goelet, donating, as he has every year since 1882, a $1,000 cup for schooners and a $500 cup for sloops, to be raced for at Newport during the August cruise of the club.

—Recently published announcements of an alleged engagement between Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt and an Englishman of wealth and title are denied most emphatically by the lady's relatives, who declare that the report is a ridiculous one of sensationalism devoid of the slightest foundation in fact.

—Messrs. Stevenson and Bell, the evangelists, still continue their special services at the First Presbyterian Church, which are attended by large audiences. Tomorrow morning Mr. Stevenson will preach at the church on Broadway on the subject, "The Bible: Is it the Word of God?" at 3 o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Bell will be at the Christian Church, Portsmouth; at 3 o'clock Mr. Stevenson will attend the service at Grace Chapel, Wellington avenue; at 6 o'clock Mr. Bell will address the City Mission Sunday school, and at 7 o'clock the usual service will be held at the church on Broadway.

THE MAJESTIC AND HER MATES.

Perhaps the most remarkable fact about the launch of the Majestic at Portsmouth, the other day, was the evidence it afforded of the rapidity with which naval construction is now carried on in England. She is an enormous barbette battleship, 390 feet long, 75 feet in extreme breadth, and with a mean draught of 27½ feet, displacing 14,900 tons; and yet, although her keel had been laid only on February 5, 1894, she touched the water January 31, 1895, the interval being five days less than a year. Her sister ship, the Magnificent, which was launched at Chatham December 10 last, was also a wonder of rapid construction, her keel having been laid December 12, 1893, but the Majestic now beats that record.

While these two vessels are the largest British war ships afloat, there are others of the same class coming along, including the Mars, the Jupiter, the Caesar, the Hannibal, the Prince George, the Illustrious and the Victorious. To find such ships, of about 15,000 tons displacement, built up from the keel plates, ready for launching, in about a year, certainly justifies the recent statement of a British authority that England can wait to see what new ships her rivals annually authorize, and then design and complete ahead of them vessels suited to meet them.

These battleships of the Majestic type carry four 12-inch, twelve quick-fire 6 inch, sixteen 12-pounder, and twelve 3-pounder guns; are to make sixteen knots with natural and seventeen and a half with forced draught, and have partial belts of Harveyed steel armor. They are not equal in weight of armament or armor protection to our trio of the Indiana class, which have but 10,288 tons displacement, but they are designed to be faster and to have a greater steaming radius. A closer parallel to them is furnished by our Iowa, of 11,410 tons displacement, which carries four 12 inch guns, eight 8 inch, and six rapid-fire 4 inch, with twenty 6 pounders, six 1 pounders and four Gatlings in the secondary battery.

The new British battleships, it must be remembered, follow directly upon eight others almost as large, of over 14,000 tons displacement; the Royal Sovereign, Royal Oak, Repulse, Revenge, Resolution, Ramillies, Hood and Empress of India. These latter carry four 13½ inch guns, ten rapid-fire 6-inch, thirty-five smaller pieces and seven torpedo tubes.

There are also in construction the pair of 14,200-ton protected cruisers, Powerful and Terrible, with their enormous 25,000 horse power each at natural draught, and scores of other vessels, big and little. It is well to note these facts, now that the bill for our more modest provision of battleships and torpedo boats is before Congress.—[New York Sun.

BABY'S HANDS.

Dainty, dimpled, little things,
Soft as angels' plumy wings,
Naught to do but grow,
Awkwardly you move about,
Up and down, and in and out;
Tell me do you know
Why such antics you go through?
What you're trying now to do?
Where you want to go?

Dainty, dimpled, little things,
Clutching, as your cradle swings,
At this nothingness;
Who can tell what you will hold,
When your grasp is firm and bold?
May be honor—may be gold—
May be nothingness!

Dainty, dimpled, little things,
Whatso'er the future brings,
There'll be work for you.
Though you still be soft and white,
You cannot your duties slight
While there's work to do.
There'll be burdens to be lifted,
From the bad good must be sifted,
From the false, the true;
And though you're so soft and small,
Of this work a part will fall,
Little hands, on you.

FANCIES.

When a man does not know any better it is not possible for him to make a wager.—[Boston Transcript.

"As you refuse me, pray tell me the sort of girl I ought to propose to."

"Well, one who is rich, and a philanthropist."—[Truth.

Three thousand car windows were broken during the recent trolley-car strike in Brooklyn. The strikers took panes to let the people know their grievances.—[Boston Transcript.

"Oh, Georgie!"

"Laura, dearest, I'm so—"

"Stop where you are, George! I'm ever so glad to see you, of course, but I just will not have my sleeves rumpled!"—[Los Angeles Times.

Grandma—Now, Robbie, what kind of pie do you like best?

Robbie—I don't know just what you'd call it, but it's what takes a whole pie to make one piece.—[Chicago Inter-Ocean.

She—What is duplicate whist?

He—Just the same as ordinary whist, except that players are expected to repeat their remarks for the benefit of those who may have been absorbed in the game.—[Puck.

At last she rebelled, mildly.

"They tell me you lead a double life," she said, looking straight into the eyes of the confessed man before her.

"Me!" he gasped.

"Yes, you. I fear that when you are away from home you are as pleasant and good-natured a man as can be found anywhere."—[Indianapolis Journal.

Wife (to husband about going out for the evening)—Don't you think it rather mean of you, George, to leave me alone evening after evening?

Husband—Why, Clara! how can you be so foolish? You know that there are so many dangerous characters prowling about the street these nights that it is best to leave one's valuables at home.—[Boston Transcript.

He was leaving the crowd where the theatre tickets for a big engagement were being sold. There was a happy look on his face, which suddenly vanished. He put his hand to his temple, and then he said:

"I guess I'll hunt up some quiet place and kick myself. That's what I'll do."

"What's the matter?" asked the friend who had overtaken him.

"I have been letting the calcium light of mathematics into the opalescent mist of my enthusiasm," he replied.

"What do you mean?"

"I've just figured it out that I've stood out in the snow in line for five hours to pay extra money for a theatre seat, rather than stand up for three hours at the performance, where its warm and comfortable!"—[Washington Star.

PERSONALS.

....A daughter was born Thursday evening to Mme. Patenotre, wife of the French ambassador to the United States, at the home of her father, Mr. James Elverson, publisher of the Philadelphia Enquirer.

....President William J. Tucker of Dartmouth College has been selected as the orator for the annual meeting of the New Hampshire Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, in Concord, N. H., April 17.

....The will of the late Mary E. Vose of Milton, Mass., bequeathes $200 each to the American Home Missionary Society, the Women's Board of Missions, the American Missionary Society and the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society.

....Rev. Dr. J. D. Davis, who is now a professor in Doshisha University, Kioto, Japan, served four years as a Union soldier in the Civil War, and during the last year of the war commanded a regiment. He has been a missionary of the American Board for twenty-three years, and a professor in Doshisha for nineteen years.

....Rev. Charles Parkhurst, editor of Zion's Herald, Mr. Conries R. Magee of the Methodist Book Concern, Boston, and Rev. George Skene, pastor of the Harvard Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Cambridgeport, have left for a brief visit to the island of Jamaica.

....The will of the late Rev. Dr. William Taylor, pastor emeritus of the Broadway Tabernacle, has been admitted to probate in the surrogate's office in New York. The will was dated April 23, 1874, and the value of the property is put at $5,000. The testator's widow, Mrs. Jessie Taylor, is the sole beneficiary, and there is a clause which says: "I do this knowing I can make no wiser provision for my children than to put their mother in my place in respect to any property I may leave, leaving it for her to provide for them as I would have done."

THE EFFECTS OF INTENSE COLD UPON THE MIND.

Extreme cold, as is well known, exerts a benumbing influence upon the mental faculties. Almost every one who has been exposed, for a longer or shorter period, to a very low temperature has noted a diminution in will power, and often a temporary weakening of the memory. Perhaps the largest scale upon which this action has ever been studied was during the retreat of the French from Moscow. The troops suffered extremely from hunger, fatigue and cold—from the latter perhaps most of all. A German physician who accompanied a detachment of his countrymen has left an interesting account of their trials during this retreat. From an abstract of this paper by Dr. Rose, in the New Yorker Medicinische Monatschrift, we find that of the earliest symptoms referable to the cold was a loss of memory. This was noted in the strong as well as those who were already suffering from the effects of the hardships to which they had been exposed. With the first appearance of a moderately low temperature (about five degrees above zero Fahrenheit), many of the soldiers were found to have forgotten the names of the most ordinary things about them, as well as those of the articles of food for the want of which they were perishing. Many forgot their own names and those of their comrades. Others showed more pronounced symptoms of mental disturbance, and not a few became temporarily insane, the type of their insanity resembling very closely senile dementia. The cold was probably not alone responsible for these effects, for a zero temperature is rather stimulating than paralyzing in its action upon the well-fed and the healthy. These men were half starved, poorly clad, worn out with long marching, many already weakened by dysentery and other diseases, and all mentally depressed, as an army in defeat always is. It needed, therefore, no very unusual degree of cold to produce the psychic effects observed under other circumstances only as a consequence of exposure to an extreme low temperature.—[Medical Record.

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy Makes Another Remarkable Cure.

(From the Times Union, Albany, N. Y.)

Four years ago, Mrs. Markham, who resides on Fir: street, corner of North Swan, noticed a sensitive spot on her left limb. It was apparently nothing serious, but soon developed into a sore, and before long the limb was a mass of ulcers. Mrs. Markham employed some of our best physicians, a dozen or more in all, but she obtained no relief. In fact, was told that nothing could be done for her, so for four years she suffered with these dreadful ulcers, which have eaten their way to the bone.

A little less than a year ago, an acquaintance told her about Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and that he believed she would find relief in using it. Mrs. Markham's four years of suffering had made her skeptical, the more so, as she had obtained no relief from any of the numerous physicians who had attended her during these years of suffering.

The friend offered to send her a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy if she would try it. He did so, and there was such a decided improvement that she concluded to give the remedy a fair test. Today, but quite a year after taking the first dose, the ulcers have disappeared, all that is left to show what she has suffered is a swelling on the ankle of the left limb, which is fast disappearing.

Mrs. Markham is naturally strong in her praises of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and feels that but for it she would now be a helpless cripple, if not a corpse.

Such a straightforward endorsement needs no comment. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cures diseases when taken according to directions; it acts directly upon the kidneys, liver and blood. In cases of nervousness, dyspepsia, rheumatism, ulcers, old sores, blood poisoning and Bright's disease, it has made pronounced cures, after all other treatments have failed

OUR STATE BANKS

We are in receipt of the annual statement exhibiting the condition of the state banks of Rhode Island on the seventeenth day of November, 1894, as prepared by Hon. A. C. Landers, state auditor. There are, as set forth, but five of the old state banks remaining, two of which are in Newport.

Of institutions for savings, Rhode Island has not less than thirty-one, which is quite remarkable, since some of the largest states in the Union have none at all. The total deposits in these banks amount to $67,444,117, which shows a falling off of $1,0?9,607 from last year. On the other hand, the number of depositors has increased by more than one thousand, making a total of 131,633.

The falling off in deposits in these institutions may be easily accounted for by the great number of building and loan associations which are now springing up in all parts of the state. Should the funds in these be included, they would show that the deposits in institutions for savings are now larger than ever before. Colonel Landers, though having no official supervision of these local institutions in his capacity as state auditor, speaks highly of their work and very properly suggests that it is "the duty of the state to protect its citizens by exercising just supervision over associations of this character." And, we may add, it is certainly a duty which the state owes to its people to enact legislation prohibiting building and loan institutions of a speculative character, such as come from other states, from doing business here without license and without conformity to state laws to be enacted. Colonel Landers follows his recommendations by presenting the draft of an act which provides for state supervision of these institutions, and which places them on a level with foreign insurance and trust companies which seek to do business in this state. It provides for license, regular reports and general supervision in the interest of the people.

It is to be hoped that the General Assembly will furnish the needed legislation at an early day, for it is apparent that the glib-tongued agents of unreliable co-operative concerns are already at work among us, and some of them doubtless sowing the seed of another harvest of bankrupt institutions, such as has just been realized. The true policy for the state is to place all building and loan associations under state supervision, on a par with savings banks and trust companies.

THE NEW BOND ISSUE.

And so the bond contract is to be carried into effect at the higher rate of interest named, instead of the lower. Congress having obstinately refused to substitute the word "gold" for "coin," nothing is left but to take the worst horn of the dilemma presented. The choice of the word to be used will cost the people of this country full $16,400,000, but the silver Populists count this as small affair compared to the injury which gold bonds, pure and simple, would do their party.

As between the Democrats and Republicans, but little political capital can be made. Each party is about equally divided over the question raised. But as between the friends of a gold standard and those of a silver basis, the latter have won, and their representatives are entitled to about all the honors within reach.

The real dividing line in this case runs north and south along the tops of the Alleghany mountains, with the silver Populists on one side and the goldbugs on the other. The voting shows the strength of the silver party to be much greater than most Eastern people have supposed. It is not decisive, however, though looking strongly toward the final triumph of the silver inflationists and the disruption of each of the old parties.

THE PASSING OF PLATT.

Thomas C. Platt insisted upon it, when the campaign of reform in New York city politics was inaugurated, that the new mayor of that city should be a Republican. His wish was granted, but Mayor Strong proves himself to be not the kind of a Republican which the boss wanted.

On general principles Mr. Platt's politics relate almost wholly to office holding, and the man who can best divide the spoils is his greatest favorite. But Mr. Strong, though a party man, promised a non partisan administration, should he be elected, and what is more, is now keeping his promises, both in letter and spirit. In making his appointments he has thus far selected the very best men to be had, and all parties appear to be represented except the Platt Republicans. These appear to be standing outside and shivering in the cold. It is even said that the boss has expressed a purpose to keep out of politics in the future, so great is his disgust, but the country will take no stock in that. Platt will be out of politics when he is put out, and not before. He can no more change his politics than the leopard can change his spots, or the Ethiopian his skin.

The New Bedford Standard has completed the improvements of which we told our readers, somewhat in detail, some time ago. No other such complete establishment exists, outside of Boston and possibly Providence, in New England. Everything is new and of the best; building, presses, type-setting machines, stereotyping apparatus and whatever else pertains to the business. Fortunately, the proprietors are the same, for it would not be so easy to make improvements in that direction as in the changes already effected. The Messrs. Anthony know how to make a popular and useful newspaper, and our sister city should be proud of them.

China might as well submit to Japan now as in the near future. Her navy is gone, her naval stations are gone, and her best soldiers are defeated whenever they make a stand. There is nothing left for the emperor but to conclude a peace as rapidly as he can. His commissioners will have all the powers necessary when the parties next meet for consultation. But Japan is in no hurry for peace. She prefers to carry on the negotiations in Pekin, to which her representatives are now making their way.

The ice cutters of Newport have scarcely ever been so favored by the weather conditions as this year. For a week together the skies have been bright and there has been scarcely a touch of severe cold. The low temperature, preceding, had given a supply of ice twelve or more inches in thickness, clear as crystal and in every way of the best quality. The harvesting is now nearly over, and Newport is well provided for the season of 1895.

The sale of the Inness pictures in New York has brought in such a goodly sum that it seems a pity the artist could not have himself enjoyed his fame and fortune. The three sales, during which two hundred and forty pictures were disposed of, brought $108 670. The public art galleries and museums throughout the country, and private collectors, seized the opportunity to become possessed of works of one of the most original of American artists.

Mr. Platt is quoted as being extremely anxious to retire from politics. One would suppose that he had recently had all the necessary assistance in that direction, says the Brockton Times, But if he has not, there are plenty of good Republicans ready to render further assistance. Mr. Platt need not be afraid; he will get there.

The Brockton Times explodes a popular sham by saying: "This talk about a popular loan is simply great. But have the people who would buy $25 or $50 worth of bonds any gold to give for them? It isn't money Uncle Sam wants, but gold. And he is forced to go to those who have it, whether he likes to do so or not."

A few more seasons like this will lead Southerners to seek winter quarters in the North, rather than freeze at home.

TOOKER THE RACQUET CHAMPION.

The fifth day's play in the amateur racket championship tournament, at the courts of the New York Racket and Tennis Club in New York, yesterday, resulted, as was generally anticipated, in a victory for Mr. John S. Tooker. One result of the day's play is that there is no necessity to play the game between E. La Montagne, Jr., and J. S Hoyt, scheduled for today. Each of the four players in the tournament had three games to play, and Mr. J. S. Tooker's defeat of Mr. La Montagne gives the former the only three possible straight wins.

Mr. Tooker had the good fortune to get two days' play against men inferior to himself before meeting the only real candidate for championship honors, E. La Montagne, Jr. The result of this continuous play of three days was that the Boston crack came into the court as fit as a fiddle, and the most cursory glance at the appended scores must disclose the fact that, while Mr. La Montagne was a doughty opponent while his strength lasted, the last game found him with much of his force and dash exhausted. From the call of play to the end of the third game the contest was as hot and as close as anything ever seen in the courts of the New York club. The fortunes of war inclined first to one player and then to the other, but close observers could not fail to notice that, while Tooker's scoring retained its vim and strength to the end, La Montagne's just as certainly tired, and many aces by placings, consequent on weak returns were scored by the Boston player. This is the second time Mr. Tooker has won the challenge cup for the Boston Athletic Association. His previous victory was in 1892.

The score is as follows: First game—Tooker, 17; La Montagne, 15. Second game—La Montagne, 18; Tooker, 15. Third game—Tooker, 18; La Montagne, 14. Fourth game—Tooker, 15; La Montagne, 3. General summary. Total number of aces—Tooker, 66; La Montagne, 50. Aces by service—Tooker, 41; La Montagne, 27. Aces by placing—Tooker, 10; La Montagne, 13. Aces by opponent's misses—Tooker, 14; La Montagne, 9. Total number of hands—Tooker, 37; La Montagne, 35.

A BRIGHTER RAILWAY OUTLOOK.

The marked increase in both west-bound and east-bound freight traffic within the trunk line territory is a cheerful offset to the unfavorable reports from a few of the Granger roads in the extreme West. While the almost total collapse of the grain traffic has caused large reductions in the revenues of the St. Paul, Rock Island, Wabash, and other Western roads, the recent trend of railroad business east of Chicago has been decidedly upward.

The aggregate shipments of freight from Atlantic ports west-bound to Chicago, for last month, show an increase of five thousand tons over the December record, and the east bound shipments out of Chicago for the first week of this month were fourteen thousand tons in excess of the shipments for the corresponding week of a year ago. Since the first of January the freight shipments both ways have steadily increased, and a large proportion of this increase has been due to the awakening of New England industries. Transportation of manufactured goods out of New England to the West and South has kept the freight traffic managers of the Eastern lines pretty busy of late. The earnings of all the New England railroads show a great improvement through the month of January, and it is confidently expected that the forthcoming monthly statements of the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, and the Baltimore & Ohio roads will be almost equally gratifying.

Improved business conditions continue in the Southwest and in a considerable portion of the Western territory. The increase in the earnings of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas system for January amounted to $253,960, the largest monthly increase within the history of the company. The increase for the fourth week alone was $62 294. The Chesapeake & Ohio reported increased earnings for last month amounting to $24 485, and the Norfolk & Western for the fourth week of January shows an increase of $45,414. The St. Louis Southwestern increased its earnings $80,700 for the entire month of January, and $30,000 for the fourth week. The Southern railway reports for the fourth week of last month an increase in earnings of $25,111; the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago, for the same period, an increase of $12,225; the Rio Grande Western, $3,150; the International & Great Northern, $13,336; the Ohio Southern, $3,525; the Fort Worth & Rio Grande, $4,017; and the Lake Erie & Western, $2 918.

The present month, owing to the severity of the weather, thus far shows a falling off in bulk of traffic, but the percentage of increased earnings is apparently holding its own. The Norfolk & Western reports an increase for the first week of February of $30,318, the Rio Grande Western an increase for the same period of $1 400, the Pittsburg & Western an increase of $5,745, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas an increase of $3,498, the St. Louis Southwestern, $6,890, and the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago, $2,430.—[New York Times.

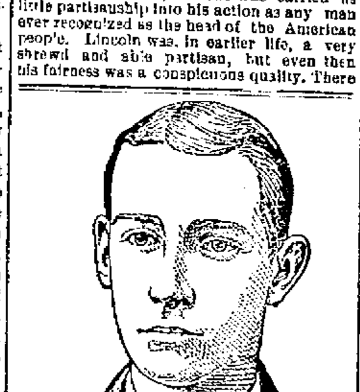

A TOOTH FOR A TOOTH.

Perhaps no profession has made more progress in the last thirty years than dentistry has done. Half a century ago dentistry, as a separate branch of the medical profession, was but little known, and dentists were but very few, even in the great cities. The regular physician pulled the aching tooth, and we have even seen a case where he filled it, and the filling, owing to the healthy character of the bone, possibly, remained in that tooth for all of a long life-time. At that period the dentist traveled about from one town to another through a wide district, and people who availed themselves of his services were thought to be rather fantastical, and foolish and extravagant as well. In a case where new front teeth were wanted, the old one was sawed off and the nerve was destroyed with hot irons and infinite torture, in order that a new tooth might be driven in on a wooden peg, a tooth that was a perpetual trouble and never permanent. A tooth that ached then was extracted without remorse, and a filling, when fillings came to be known, as often dropped out as staid in. Now, on the contrary, if the tooth must be parted with, there are so many ways of evading the pain that, had they existed in the old time, Isaac of York might have kept his money, and the anodynes are so used that the patient is conscious and sees the whole operation, and suffers nothing at all. But no tooth is taken out now that can possibly be kept in. If a nerve must be killed it is usually killed painlessly, and the tooth that once could not bear permanent and solid filling is treated till it is able to do so. Even when a tooth is so nearly gone that retaining points for the filling are not to be had, tiny gold screws can be inserted whose heads answer for the points, a fine gold wire can hold the fragile sections together and be built about, and anodynes have been found that can be injected into the gum or applied to it and do away with much of the pain once attending a bad excavation or a tender filling. Fillings are made so artistically, too, as almost to be beautiful in themselves; and it is even possible, in case of a cavity on the front surface of a tooth, to insert a bit of enamel so delicately that even the cracks cannot be discerned.—[Harper's Bazar.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The celebration of Abraham Lincoln's birthday this year has taken on a partisan aspect. The Republicans have the right to the honor of furnishing the nation with a President second to but one man who has ever filled that office, and worthy to be ranged very nearly with Washington himself. The question may well be raised if Lincoln is the exclusive possession of any party. Certainly his greatest fame was gained as a President of the whole nation, and one who carried as little partisanship into his action as any man ever recognized as the head of the American people. Lincoln was, in earlier life, a very shrewd and able partisan, but even then his fairness was a conspicuous quality. There has seldom, if ever, been an instance in our political history where a man was so constantly considerate and courteous toward those whom he was opposing. He often stated their side of the case even more strongly than it was in their power to do it themselves.—[Boston Herald.

The state board of charities and corrections has finally settled the question of the superintendency of the Sockanosset school for Boys, by accepting the resignation of Mr. William H. Murray and electing Mr. James H. Eastman superintendent. Mr. Peckham, secretary of the board, had previously been appointed acting superintendent until a permanent official should be selected. Mr. Eastman has charge of the State Asylum for the Insane, and will look after the Sockanosset school in addition to his other duties.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16, 8 A. M.—For Massachusetts and Rhode Island—Snow flurries, followed by fair; slightly warmer in the interior Sunday afternoon; westerly winds.

FOR BOSTON AND VICINITY.

BOSTON, Feb. 16, 8 A. M.—Local forecast for Boston and vicinity until Sunday night—Increasing cloudiness; probably snow or rain tonight and Sunday morning, followed by clearing; slight changes in temperature; westerly to northerly winds.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

The southern storm is this morning central off the North Carolina coast, having been delayed in its progress by the high barometer over the Middle states. Although the pressure has fallen decidedly on the middle Atlantic coast, the storm will evidently not be so severe here as at first expected. It, however, caused heavy snow in northern Georgia, the report from Atlanta indicating six inches, and snow is falling this morning in eastern Tennessee and Virginia, varying in depth from two to three and one half inches. Cloudy, threatening skies extend northward to Philadelphia. That part of the storm affecting this vicinity will reach here tonight or early tomorrow, and the information signal is displayed at stations along the coast, in anticipation of high northeast winds, shifting to northwest. Fair weather is general in interior and western districts, attended by considerable cloudiness in the lake region and the Northwest. A slight disturbance is located over Lake Superior, and in the far Northwest the conditions are favorable for further storm development. A marked rise in temperature, of from twenty to sixty degrees, has occurred in Montana and the Dakotas, where the readings are the highest for several weeks past. Exceptionally severe temperature continues in the Gulf states, with no prospects of a change. New England weather is unchanged; clear skies, and a reasonable warmth prevails, with moderate westerly winds.

The failure of the House of Representatives to adopt the gold loan bill is a most disgraceful miscarriage of legislation, humiliating alike to Congress and the nation. As the question turned upon the quibble as between the terms "in coin" and "in gold coin," and it may be just possible that the House will attempt to redeem its discredit by some other form of bill, I would suggest that Congress pass an act authorizing the issue of $1 200,000,000 bonds, the rate of interest not to exceed three per cent., payable in "coin," the holders of said bonds to have the option when the government makes payment of principal or interest to demand gold or silver coin or legal tender notes therefor. $185,000 000 of said bonds to be held in reserve to provide for that amount of outstanding bonds, the holders of such bonds to have the option at or before their maturity to convert them into the bonds authorized by this act, bearing two and a half per cent interest—the $200,000 000 remaining to be issued at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, with the consent of the President of the United States, for the purposes named in the funding act of 1870 and the resumption act of 1875, all other provisions in said acts to be repealed on the enactment of this measure.

The first half of President Cleveland's administration certainly proved very disastrous to the business and labor interests of the country, as it was full of object lessons of a drastic character. The President has now commenced on the last half of his term of office, and there are not wanting indications that his policy will be to restore confidence so as to bring back a return of prosperity. His object also hereafter will be directed to the members of Congress and not to their constituents. This is one good reason for the belief that the winter of our distress will pass smoothly into a cheerful summer.—[Henry Clews.

PROVIDENCE NOTES.

fore the Courts and Legislative Committees.

[Special despatch to the News.]

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 16.—In the common leas division of the supreme court this morning, before Judge Wilbur, Attorney General Dubois filed an answer to the plea of Assemblyman John Nelson, of "once in jeopardy," and the case will be argued next Wednesday. The attorney general's answer includes a motion to strike out the plea, and a demurrer on the ground that there is nothing to answer. The attorney general expects the trial to take place February 25, as originally arranged.

The senate committee on judiciary gave a hearing this morning on the act to incorporate the city of Central Falls. Large numbers of citizens of Lincoln were present, and a lively discussion ensued, in which many differing opinions were expressed.

In the appellate division of the supreme court today, in the case of Jennie L. Miller et al. vs. Clarence D. Collis, administrator, an order was entered that a motion for leave to amend the bill. Messrs. C. A. Ives and John F. Lonsdale appeared for complainant, and Mr. S. R. Honey for respondent.

Mr. Samuel Darling is again causing trouble in the legislature. Not only has he not abandoned his anti-vaccination crusade, but yesterday he appeared before the senate judiciary committee to oppose the medical bill, intended to bar quacks from practice in Rhode Island, which has the endorsement of the state board of health. Mr. Darling is apparently as unquenchable as Dr. Garvin.

Brooklyn Trolley Strike Ended, Except on the Atlantic Avenue Lines.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 16.—At a meeting of District Assembly No. 75, Knights of Labor, at noon today, it was voted to call off the strike on the trolley railroads in Brooklyn, with the exception of the Atlantic Avenue company's system of lines, which are still out officially, although most of the men had applied for work on this line within the last two days.

TO END THE WAR.

England and Russia Offer to Mediate Between China and Japan.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—A despatch from Shanghai to the Pall Mall Gazette says it is asserted that England and Russia have offered to mediate between China and Japan.

It is reported in Shanghai that the foreign ministers in Pekin have ordered the legation guards, composed of sailors and marines from the various warships attached to the Chinese station, to report at the respective legations in Pekin at once. These guards have been awaiting orders in Ten Tsin for some time.

It is reported at Chee Foo that the Japanese have granted freedom to all foreigners at Wei-Hai-Wei except the American William Rowle, who was arrested by the Japanese at Kobe on steamer Sydney in November last, on the charge of the discovery of his connection with a Chinese plot to blow up the Japanese fleet. Howle was subsequently released on parole and went to Wei-Hai-Wei, where he was engaged in the work of preparing explosives with which to carry out his scheme of destroying the Japanese fleet.

O'NEIL'S OPPOSITION.

Strongly Objects to the Payment of the Behring Sea Claims.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The discussion in the appropriations committee today, over the Behring sea estimate, was precipitated by Mr. O'Neil of Massachusetts, who opposed it in strong terms. He exclaimed with some heat that he would rather go to war with Great Britain than make this payment. He said in effect that Great Britain is always ready to arbitrate with any country as big as herself, and that the representatives on the part of the United States at the tribunal of Paris were outwitted by British representatives. Great Britain, he asserted, trained her diplomats carefully, and they are now among the cleverest in the world. The other members of the tribunal, being themselves citizens of monarchies, were naturally more in sympathy with Great Britain than with the American republic. It was contended by some of the other members present that we had agreed to be bound by the findings of the tribunal, and that we were in duty bound to pay the award. Mr. O'Neil insisted that such a payment by the United States would be a mistake. At all events, there is no occasion for haste in the matter, while the claims of so many of our own citizens remain unpaid. It is not doubted, notwithstanding Mr. O'Neil's opposition in the committee today, that when the appropriation is offered as an amendment to the bill in the house it will pass.

Corporal Tanner to Speak to Connecticut Veterans.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 16.—Corporal James Tanner, probably the best-known veteran soldier in the Union, has sent word that he will speak at the Grand Army of the Republic encampment, which will be held in this city February 19 and 20. Governor Coffin and staff and a number of state officers will also be present. Judge Torrance of the supreme court, who is also a veteran, is among the speakers announced.

Death of a Distinguished Baltimorean.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16.—Hon. James Hodges, one of Baltimore's most distinguished citizens, died last night, aged seventy-two years. For fifty years he had been the senior of the firm of Hodges Bros. In 1885 he was elected mayor of Baltimore, and in 1887 received a considerable vote in the nominating convention for governor. President Harrison appointed him a member of the World's Columbian Commission for Maryland.

MISS CALLENDER'S WILL.

The will of Miss Elizabeth Callender was today offered for probate. In it she gives $5,000 to the fund for disabled clergymen of the Presbyterian church, $3,000 to the United Congregational Church, for the purchase of a free bed in the Newport Hospital, and a share in the Redwood Library and her pew in the United Congregational Church to the church, all to be under the control of the pastor. Miss Callender's nieces receive bequests, the Misses Ogden receiving the house on Narragansett avenue. The residue of the estate is left to Mr. Charles Francis Adams of Boston, to be disposed of according to the testator's wishes. Mr. Adams is appointed sole executor, and is not required to give bonds.

LINCOLN'S WAY OF PUTTING IT.

Two letters were once addressed to a certain corps commander of the Army of the Potomac on the eve of a forward movement, one of them written by General Halleck, chief of staff, and the other by President Lincoln. General Halleck's letter contained a warning couched in this fashion: "In undertaking to place your command on the opposite shore of the Rappahannock you will exercise extreme caution in affording full protection to your advance, rear and flanks, in order that the enemy may not be encouraged to make an attack while your forces are separated in the act of crossing." Lincoln gave similar good advice to the same commander in the note which he wrote to him, but this was the form in which he expressed it: "Look out, when you cross the river, that you don't hang yourself up in the middle like a steer on a fence, neither able to hook with your horns nor kick with your hoofs."

SALE OF SEATS FOR PINAFORE.

There was a big crowd on Touro street this morning, waiting for the opening of the Opera House box office for the exchange of tickets for the "Pinafore" performances. The sale progressed very slowly, and when about a hundred people were still outside on the Touro street sidewalk it was suggested that the line be reversed, and the people allowed to occupy the Opera House while they waited. The people were also given numbers, so that it would not be necessary to stand in line, a scheme which seemed to work well. The seats sold were in exchange for tickets purchased of the members of the company and on Monday the general sale will begin. There are still good seats to be obtained for all the three performances. The pictures of the principals, photographed by Holloway, which are on exhibition in Rogers's window, are attracting much attention. The pictures are grouped in an appropriate frame.

DESCENDANTS OF REV. OBADIAH HOLMES.

For some time Mr. W. H. Holmes of this city has been taking an interest in the early history, line of descent and other facts regarding Rev. Obadiah Holmes, of whom he is a descendant, and will answer the following letter, received today:

MATAWAN, N. J., Feb. 13, 1895.

Mr. William H. Holmes:

Dear Sir: I am very anxious to learn the names of the eight children of Rev. Obadiah Holmes of Rhode Island (who was publicly whipped in the streets of Boston in 1651 for his Baptist faith); if there were any daughters, how many, who they married, etc.

Two of his sons, Jonathan and Obadiah, settled upon his lands in Middletown, N. J., which in 1713 he bequeathed to them; but aside from these branches of the family we know very little, if anything, of his descendants. My mother was a Holmes, and in the direct line of descent from the great man.

If you will kindly favor me with any facts that may be in your possession, bearing on the subject in question, or put me in communication with any one who can enlighten me, I will esteem it a great favor.

Yours respectfully,
A. E. TUDOR.

THE FLYING-MACHINE.

While in Paris in 1889 I saw some very beautiful seamless tubes of steel, copper, brass, and also of German silver. I was assured that they could be made of almost any size and thickness, and of almost any length, but the small and thin tubes were exceedingly expensive. These tubes caused me again to think of the subject of aerial navigation, and while on a journey through the Austrian Alps I studied a great deal on the subject, and it appeared to me that with these light tubes I should be able to make a steam generator light enough for the flying-machine of which I had so long been thinking. From Austria I went to Spain, and while there I had the misfortune to break a muscle in my leg, which confined me to my room for a considerable time. I obtained pen, ink, and a lot of paper, and amused myself by making a great number of mathematical calculations in regard to the weight and power of a steam generator and of engines, also in regard to the thrust of screws working in air, and the lifting power of aeroplanes.

On my return to England I employed all my leisure moments in making drawings of a pair of compound engines, three hundred horse-power, for my proposed flying-machine, and, the drawings finished, I at once set about to have the engines made. I decided to make the whole engine of steel.

The crank shafts were very light and hollow, and were highly tempered; the cylinders were then rebored, and their thickness reduced to 3-32 inch. I made my connecting rods of steel tubes, using the inside as an oil reservoir. These connecting rods were new in design, having universal joints at both ends. Two pairs of engines were built (one pair for each of the two screws which I proposed to have on my flying-machine,) and every ounce of steel in them was of the very best quality. When finished it was found that they weighed collectively six hundred pounds, and that they would develop over three hundred horse power. These were by far the lightest engines for their power ever built in the world.

The next problem was the steam generator. I again went to Paris to see about the tubes, but I found that the kind I required had only been made in very small quantities, and were very high priced. However, I ordered a lot of the very thin and strong copper tubes. The price agreed upon was equal to their weight in silver, namely, $750 for the lot.

These tubes were made and forwarded to England. But at that time I happened to be in St. Petersburg, and in my absence they were placed in the stores of my gun company, and before I returned to England some of the dishonest employes of that company stole the tubes, and sold them as old copper for about $5, and went on a debauch with the proceeds, and the beautiful tubes which had cost so much money and taken so long to make were again reduced to pig copper. Another set of tubes was obtained as soon as possible, and experiments commenced with the boiler. The first boiler made did not prove satisfactory, and a third set of tubes of a larger diameter was obtained, and another boiler was built. When finished it had, with its feed-water heater, which really formed a part of the boiler, a heating surface of 800 square feet. It weighed with its gas burner, casing, and smoke stack about 1000 pounds. Experiments were then made with a gas apparatus, as I believe that gas was the only fuel that would be suitable for running a boiler constructed of such a large number of very thin tubes. This required a great deal of experimenting, but in the end I succeeded in making and burning all the gas required, and I found that my boiler would make all the steam that my engines would use.

I then constructed a species of platform cars mounted on four flanged wheels. The boiler was placed on the forward end of this car, and the engines attached to the rear end on brackets. I had already made a number of very large, light, and strong wooden screws of white pine, worked down very thin, and covered with strong linen. They were found to be very efficient. Each screw was 17 feet 10 inches in diameter, and had a pitch of 16 feet. In the mean time I had been providing a railroad track, nine feet gauge, leading from the shop where I had built my machine, across a field, a distance of 1800 feet. When everything was in readiness I ran my machine out on the track and started my engines, and I found that the screws could be run at a very high velocity, that they got a good grip on the air and would propel my platform car across the field at a high velocity.—[Harper's Young People.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—The Torpedo Station launch is running on time today.

—Barge Ballse is discharging coal for G. B. Reynolds & Co.

—Dowager Lady Howard, of England, is at the Perry House.

—Mr. Charles Francis Adams of Boston was in town today.

—Tug Aquidneck yesterday towed salt schooner Jacob Haskell to Providence.

—Rev. E. B. Bary, recently of Bangor, Me., will preach at the United Congregational Church tomorrow.

—Cruiser Minneapolis is expected here Monday afternoon or evening from New York for her torpedo outfit.

—Pilot boat E. E. Barrett, No. 8, which has been out since February 4, arrived this morning, after a stormy voyage.

—The late Nathan B. Gould was the senior past commander of Washington Commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar.

—The historical rooms will be open to the public Monday evening, when the monthly meeting of the society will be held.

—The subject of the sermon at the evening service at Trinity Church tomorrow will be "The Proper Treatment of Children."

—An attempt was made this morning to blow up the ice about the Wickford boat's slip at Commercial wharf, with dynamite, but was finally abandoned.

—The harbor is nearly filled with ice, which, except near the wharves, is well broken up. The outer harbor is quite free, and there is considerable clear water in the bay.

—The local display now received this morning from the signal office at Washington the following bulletin: "Hoist information signal at 10:30 A. M.; high northeast winds, shifting to northwest, are expected."

—The torpedo outfit for the Olympia, at the Mare Island navy yard, California, left the Torpedo Station today. There were no explosives in the shipment, as the torpedo war heads will be filled with gun cotton on the Pacific slope.

—The postponed civil service examination of candidates for letter carriers and post-office clerks was held at the Clarke street school building this morning. One of the candidates read the addresses on fifty postal cards in exactly four minutes.

—Louise F. and Caroline R. Atkinson have sold to Mary Lappin Condray a lot of land, with buildings, bounded easterly on Thames street, southerly by land of Edward A. Edes, westerly by land of William P. Sheffield, Jr., and northerly by Marsh's court.

—Steamer General left for Wickford at 10 o'clock this morning, and arrived back at 1:30, with the mail, the New York papers and a large load of freight which had been accumulating for several days. The delay in getting back was caused by the freight.

—Yesterday, in coming down the bay, Captain Kelley of tug Aquidneck saw a boat or boathouse afloat near Prudence. Today the same house was in the harbor, inside the breakwater light, and the Aquidneck tried to tow it in out of the channel. The house pulled to pieces and the work was suspended.

—The ice cutters are on the home stretch. This afternoon the Lily pond house will be filled, but the machinery will be kept at work, stacking ice for immediate consumption. Tilley's houses at Easton's pond will practically be filled tonight, but a little additional time may be put in Monday, to make it good measure. By tomorrow night the big house of the Arctic company at Easton's Pond will probably be full, and the Clarke houses in the rear will then be filled, and a stack built if the weather continues favorable.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Steamer Conanicut will make no trips tomorrow. The boat landed this morning at Commercial wharf. On her 12 o'clock trip from Newport today the boat passed a large bath house, partially wrecked in the ice.

There will be no services at St. Matthew's Church tomorrow.

A three-masted schooner went up the west bay today, under sail, the first seen since the storm.

Many people who travel across the ferry think some movement should be made towards moving schooner Florida from the Ferry slip in Newport, as no teams can use the ferry until the boat can connect with her own wharf in Newport.

Dutch Island harbor is still full of ice, which extends well up beyond Dutch Island. The bay west of the island is unobstructed.

ASKS IF HE IS INSANE.

Thomas H. Hall, the well-known cigarette manufacturer, wants to know whether he is insane. He is so much in doubt on the subject that he has joined with his son and other members of his family in a petition to the supreme court asking for the appointment of a commission to determine officially his mental condition. There is no other case on record, so far as known, where anybody, fearing he might be insane, has come into court asking for a commission in lunacy on his own account.

The reason for the singular proceeding, as set forth by Joseph Hall, a son, in an affidavit presented yesterday to Justice Lawrence in the supreme court, is that Mr. Hall wants to sell out his cigarette business, and the purchaser wants to make sure of having a clear title. The son declares that for the last two years his father has been unable to remember things, and has been suffering from such a loss of memory as to render him incompetent to carry on the business, which he has been engaged in for so many years. The son declares that the business is now in such a condition that it can be sold to advantage, but the prospective purchaser, who is familiar with the mental condition of Mr. Hall, insists, as one of the conditions of the sale, that a commission shall issue to determine his mental condition. Young Mr. Hall therefore asks, if his father is adjudged insane, that he, his mother, Mary Louise Hall, and his brother, Pierre C. Hall, be appointed committee of his father's person and estate.

In the extraordinary affidavit made by Mr. Hall himself, in which he joins in the petition for the issuance of the commission, he says that he is perfectly familiar with the purposes and objects of the commission, and consents to it. "My recollection is," declares Mr. Hall, "that some four years ago I was very ill and for some time afterward was in no condition to care for myself or my affairs. Since then I have gradually improved, except for my loss of memory. While I consider myself perfectly competent to comprehend any legal instrument to which I may be a party, I nevertheless recognize the justice of satisfying the proposed purchaser of my manufacturing business, the negotiations for which I have to a great extent directed. Should, upon judicial inquiry, the appointment of a committee be deemed necessary, I pray that such committee may be composed of my wife and my sons Joseph and Pierre, the two former of whom I have made executors of my will, and that they be allowed to serve without bonds."

Mrs. Mary Louise Hall, wife of the principal; Adelaide Hall Graham, a daughter; Pierre C. Hall, a son, and Frederick Beltz, a son-in-law, also joined in asking for the commission, and, there being no opposition, Justice Lawrence appointed Lyle A. Lockwood, Dr. Austin Flint and Nelson Greenfield as commissioners to take testimony regarding Mr. Hall's sanity. An early hearing will be fixed.

For nearly a quarter of a century Thomas B. Hall, who lives at 53 East Seventy-fifth street, has been a leading figure in the tobacco trade. He was one of the pioneers in advertising on a large scale for the introduction of cigarettes, and at one time there was hardly a city or village that did not have on its blank walls huge pictures of well known actors and actresses, which Mr. Hall used to carry his advertisements. He scattered millions of Mary Anderson's likeness broadcast over the country. Most of these were life-size lithographs, and it was often said that Mr. Hall did as much to make Miss Anderson famous as even the talent of the actress.

What is to become of the business founded by Mr. Hall and which has made him a millionaire was not positively stated yesterday, but it was generally understood that the purchaser who stands ready to buy the cigarette concern is the American Tobacco Company. —[New York Times.

SPECIAL WIRE TO THE NEWS

AS LONDON SEES IT.

New Loan a Good Investment, but Not Likely to End the Crisis.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—The Statist, in an article on the new United States loan, says: "United States bonds running thirty years and yielding three and a half per cent. are an exceedingly good investment, and will without doubt be eagerly sought for in London and on the Continent, but they will not put an end to the crisis. The new Congress will not be likely to pass the requisite measures, and President Cleveland will not borrow again. The result will be that gold will go to a premium, but the government will not break faith with its creditors but will pay gold, though its domestic currency is silver, the same as Russia and India pay gold."

The Economist maintains that it would be absurd to pretend that the United States is under any obligation, moral or otherwise, to pay gold. The case, the paper says, is identical with that of India, which if it elects to issue a gold loan can borrow at a less rate than three per cent., but has to pay an additional one per cent. for a rupee loan.

Desperate Attempt to Escape by Texas Convicts.

GALVESTON, Tex., Feb. 16.—Three convicts working on the track of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway at Hermitage, Texas, made an attempt to escape yesterday. They uncoupled the engine from the work train, throwing the engineer off, and started away. The guards fired, killing one and wounding another. The firemen filled the boiler with cold water, killing the engine. When it stopped the remaining convict made his escape.

Motion to Dismiss the Somerby Indictment Overruled.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 16.—The motion to dismiss the indictment for embezzlement against Freeman D. Somerby of the Iron Hall was overruled by Judge McCray in the criminal court yesterday. Somerby's attorney made the motion, on the ground that the case of Mark Davis, who was jointly indicted, was not tried within three terms following the finding of the indictment, and therefore Somerby should not be held longer. Sixty days were given to file exceptions, and the case will probably be carried to the supreme court.

Picked Up Unconscious in the Streets of New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Yesterday afternoon a stranger was found unconscious at the corner of Broadway and Day street, and was removed to the Hudson street hospital by the police. The man recovered consciousness this morning, and said he was Francis Costello, a telegraph operator, and that he was from New Haven, Conn. He is still in the hospital.

Building Demolished, and Three Men Fatally Injured.

TOWANDA, Penn., Feb. 16.—By the explosion of a boiler in the Cobb saw mill, near this city, yesterday, Fireman Theodore Pencil and a teamster named John Mack were instantly killed, and Frank Myers was fatally injured. The explosion nearly demolished the building and the noise could be heard for miles.

Julia Marlowe's Suit for Libel.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 16.—Julia Marlowe Taber, the actress, yesterday filed a suit in the United States court in this city, asking $25,000 damages against the Indianapolis Journal for an alleged libelous publication. The publication was a criticism upon her company at her last appearance in this city.

OUR FREAKISH VOLCANO.

Bogoslof Island, of the Aleutian chain, is out of the way of vessels cruising in northwestern waters. Few ships think it worth while to visit the neighborhood, and only an occasional revenue cutter goes out of its way to observe the latest doings of this freak among volcanoes.

From time to time, in recent years, the Sun has reported the remarkable conduct of Bogoslof. It was long known only as a little rock in the Aleutian chain, about a hundred miles west of Unalaska. It appears to be a chimney which a volcanic vent at the bottom of the sea has lifted above the waters, and it has chiefly been noted for gentle and persistent smoking.

Then a great submarine eruption thrust a new Bogoslof six hundred feet into the air. It was over half a mile from the old one, and during the weeks it was building above the sea ashes from its fiery crater were sifted for hundreds of square miles around. The following year there was fresh news to report. Across the stretch of water between new and old Bogoslof a narrow isthmus connecting them came into view, and clouds of steam and smoke were pouring from numerous fissures in the sides of the new volcano, while old Bogoslof, astonished by the strange happenings in its neighborhood, had lapsed into inactivity.

Every succeeding visit to our new volcano has revealed fresh changes. The latest report, by Captain Tanner, just published at Washington, says the volcano has lost a hundred feet in height. Very likely the upper part of the rock has been knocked off in some unusual outburst. The isthmus has entirely disappeared, but a spit from the mountain now juts into the sea several hundred feet to the west. Vessels can sail between the two volcanoes where a year ago a land bridge barred the way. The outline of the new volcano has also changed, and smoke and dust are still issuing from its sides and summit.

Bogoslof is certainly doing its best to change the topography of our Pacific domain. It is interesting to hear of the changes that occur, but it is not a nice place to journey to. Nobody knows when the unexpected may happen, and it is better to be out of range when it comes.—[New York Sun.

THE REPRESENTATIVE MAN NEEDED

We have referred to the desirability of Mr. Thomas B. Reed's taking an unequivocal position upon the currency question for his own sake, as a candidate for the Presidency. It is still more important that he should do this in the public interest. All present signs point to the election of the next President by the Republican party. Anything is possible in our elections, but we think no instance is on record where a party so divided and demoralized as the Democrats now are rallied sufficiently to carry the country in a period of less than two years. The Republicans have their time of trial before them, but the worst that is likely to befall it is the failure of an election of the next President by the people. In such an event, the preponderance of the Republicans in the House of Representatives of Congress makes the Presidency almost surely theirs. The Republicans may during the next Congress prove themselves unsatisfactory in dealing with the currency, but, with the Democrats as the alternative, are the people likely to be attracted away from the former? The Democrats, whose prospects were poor enough when the present session of Congress met, have made them worse by their action since.

The Republican party, then, being likely to elect the next President, it is essential to the public welfare that it shall present a candidate to its convention about whom its voters there can rally as clear in his position on the currency. There is need of at least one man who is not a trimmer here—who believes in sound money as honestly and as heartily as does President Cleveland, and with whom, if elected President, the country can feel the same safety against attacks on the currency that it feels with President Cleveland now. It will be a public misfortune if the Republicans do not furnish such a candidate. Mr. Thomas B. Reed is naturally that man, because he has been a man of fixed opinions and is one of decided character. He ought to take the place in the Republican party that Grover Cleveland now occupies in the Democratic party. If the Democratic party, with all its faults, has furnished the nation with a man who has had the courage to stand as a rock against silverite assaults upon the currency of the nation, surely we have a right to expect as much from the Republicans if they furnish his successor.

The danger of the Republicans is in their disposition to subordinate their position toward the currency to the exigencies of politics. This is particularly the case with their candidates for the Presidency. There is less fear that such a man as Mr. Reed, for instance, will not protect the currency, if he reaches the Presidency, than there is that he may lose the nomination to it and find such nomination falling to a weaker man, because of his anxiety to obtain votes in the Republican convention from those Republicans who are supporters of silver. We had in Grover Cleveland three years ago and earlier a candidate whose avowal of principle and purpose was clear, firm, unquestionable. There are several Republicans seeking the Presidency now. Is there one of them who occupies the same decided attitude? We had hoped to record Mr. Reed in that class, but he has already been thought to have wavered so far as to make it necessary for the business men of Boston to send on a personal appeal to him to stand firm. Our own opinion is that some injustice was done him in that thought. Still the fact remains that there have been suspicions that his ambition for the Presidency is in the way of the stiffening of his spine—that he fears to offend a class of men in the Republican party who hold the views that Grover Cleveland defied without a particle of reservation when in the same position in the Democratic party.

What the country needs, what its business men have a right to claim, and what they should unbendingly insist upon having, is a Republican candidate for nomination to the Presidency whose position shall not be in the slightest degree equivocal on the currency. We know they have not such a man in McKinley; we remember Harrison as first of all a politician in that office; Allison has a record as a compromiser. There is nothing of the stamp of fixed opinion and defiant purpose as regards the currency of Cleveland in any of these men. When we look to Mr. Reed for it, are we to find him wavering? If he will take a firm attitude, it may still be well. If not, some other man should be brought forward for the Republican candidate for the Presidency. The time has gone by for doubtful men here. The country cannot afford to refuse to meet the issue squarely. The business men in it have a right to a candidate who represents their opinions, and who will not allow them to be made secondary to the effort for party unity. The country has felt safe from silverite assaults on the currency under Cleveland. If it could not advance in the desired direction, it could at least be protected against receding. The issue ought to be made as to whether the Republicans are to furnish the nation the same safeguard in the next President that the Democrats have provided in the present one, and the Republicans should present a candidate who is a guaranty here in the stand he takes. —[Boston Herald.

CANDID DEALING WITH WORKMEN.

The Southern Railway Company has set a good example to all corporations engaged in the railroad business, in making a candid statement of the condition of its business in reply to a demand for the restoration of the scale of wages in effect before the reduction upon the Richmond & Danville and East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia lines in 1893. It presents a new schedule to take effect on the first of May, unless the men shall assent to it sooner, and it accompanies this with a complete statement intended to explain and justify the company's failure to comply with the demand.

The company frankly recognizes the unions, and addresses the statement not only to the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen in its employment, but to the joint committee of their several organizations. After stating the reductions made upon the lines which have come under its control, it gives a table showing the decrease in gross and net earnings since 1891, when the schedule was adopted which the men wish to have restored. It shows the general decrease in railway earnings in the South, and points out that those on the system of the Southern Railway Company are below the general level. It carries the comparison out in considerable detail and explains the causes of the falling off.

There has been a considerable reduction in the prices of the chief staple products of the South during the period of depression in the last two years, and this has compelled a reduction in the rates of transportation, in order to retain business and so far as possible to encourage industry and trade in that section. The percentage of these reductions is stated, and the fact is pointed out that workmen in other industries have suffered as well as railroad men. A comparison is made showing that the Southern railroads have at present a less profitable field than those of other sections of the country.

The statement also shows the losses that capital has suffered in the reorganization of the Southern system and the expenses that have been incurred in rehabilitating it. There has been shrinkage of $40,000,000 in the issued capital, and $12,000,000 of new money has been put in, from which no income is now derived and none is expected until a marked improvement in business shall take place. It is has been a general reduction of salaries and such administrative expenses as could be advantageously curtailed, and much has been done to improve the properties and enhance their earning capacity in better times. It is hoped that the improvement will result in increased business and in increased benefits for those engaged in train service." Not only are complete schedules of wages and rules of service presented with this statement, but tables are given showing the average hours of work per day and days per month, and the average daily and monthly wages in each branch of the service under these schedules and rules.

The spirit displayed in this method of answering the demand of the workmen is most commendable, and is calculated to prevent antagonism between them and the employing company. We shall be surprised if it is not accepted as both conclusive and, under existing circumstances, satisfactory to the men. The implied promise that they shall share the benefits of improved business when it comes should be scrupulously kept, and then the wisdom of this plan of dealing with railroad employes will be fully vindicated. We are convinced that in most cases all that is needed to avoid trouble is a full understanding of the situation and a spirit of candor and fair dealing on both sides.—[New York Times.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Pimples, Blotches and Old Sores Catarrh, Malaria and Kidney Troubles

P. P. P. purifies the blood, builds up the weak and debilitated, gives strength to weakened nerves, expels diseases, giving the patient health and happiness where sickness, gloomy feelings and lassitude first prevailed.

For blood poisoning, mercurial poisoning, malaria, dyspepsia, and in all blood and skin diseases, like blotches, pimples, old chronic ulcers, tetter, scald head, boils, erysipelas, eczema—we may say, without fear of contradiction, that P. P. P. is the best blood purifier in the world, and makes positive, speedy and permanent cures in all cases.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 14th, 1893.—I can speak in the highest terms of your medicine from my own personal knowledge. I was affected with heart disease, pleurisy and rheumatism for 35 years, was treated by the very best physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, tried every known remedy without finding relief. I have only taken one bottle of your P. P. P., and can cheerfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I can recommend your medicine to all sufferers of the above diseases.

FIGHTING AGAINST SIN.

General Booth Will Lead Demonstrations in New England.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—Great preparations are being made for the reception of General William Booth, the founder and commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, by the local divisions of the army. General Booth will be assisted by Commander Ballington Booth, who has charge of the army in the United States.

Brigadier William Brewer, head of the New England division of the army, has issued a circular announcing the program that will be carried out while General Booth is in New England. He will be in Boston for the first three days of next week. Upon his arrival here today he will be given an informal reception by Mayor Curtis at Faneuil hall at 4 o'clock, whither he will be escorted from the railway station by a detail of the army.

GENERAL WILLIAM BOOTH.

Sunday and Monday there will be meetings at 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. The Sunday meetings will all be held in Mechanics' hall. The morning meeting on Monday will be held in Faneuil hall, and the afternoon and evening meetings in Music hall. Half-hour prayer meetings will be held before each of the regular meetings mentioned. Monday evening there will be a parade of the Salvation Army, which will be reviewed by General Booth at the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets.

Two Councils Will Be Held by the general Tuesday; one at 10 a. m., at 724 Washington street, at which the staff and field officers will be present, and the other at 2 p. m., at 888 Washington street, which will be attended by the staff, field and local officers, soldiers and recruits. At 4:30 p. m. a reception will be given to the general by leading citizens in Trinity church. At 7:15 p. m., in Music hall, General Booth will deliver a lecture on his social work. He will be introduced by Governor Greenhalge.

On Wednesday General Booth will go to Worcester, on Thursday to Providence, and on Friday he will be in Springfield. At the meeting in Providence on Thursday evening, Governor Brown of Rhode Island will preside, and at the Friday evening meeting in Springfield Mayor Long of that city will occupy the chair.

Orders have been issued by Brigadier Brewer to officers, brass and timbrel bands, drum corps and the rank and file of the army regarding their parts in the program, and the demonstration will undoubtedly be the greatest that the Salvation Army has ever made in this part of the world.

Rum's Ravages.

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 16.—A terrible case of suffering was discovered at Central Falls yesterday in a family, the father of which was sent to the state farm as an habitual drunkard four months ago, whither the mother followed two days ago for the same offense. There were three children left unprotected, a girl of 6, a boy of 2½ and a baby 6 months old. The two older children had scarcely a rag of clothing and were so weak that they could not stand, while the infant was almost too weak to take nourishment. All were covered with sores and it is doubtful if they live.

Lives Needlessly Sacrificed.

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 16.—Boiler Inspector Munroe, testifying in the Mashpaug ice house fatality inquest, stated that in 1889 he examined the boiler and, knowing it to be faulty, had given caution not to exceed a small pressure of steam. The pressure of steam on the day of the explosion exceeded the limit.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—There was little done at the state house yesterday. The house decided to discuss the photographing of voters. The bill to abolish days of grace was killed. A bill was presented in the senate to allow the Collateral Loan company to establish two branches in Boston.

Clothing Company Gone Under.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—Judge Colt has appointed a receiver for the Plymouth Rock Pants company. It is alleged that the company has $83,000 in promissory notes and $30,000 in open and overdue accounts, with no present available assets. The company has 32 stores in different states.

Whirled to Death.

PAWTUCKET, Feb. 16.—William Wolsencroft, 27 years of age, was killed yesterday afternoon at the works of the American Machine company. He was caught in the gearing and carried around a large grindstone. His neck was broken and he was otherwise terribly injured.

New England Briefs.

Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., left no will.

There are 300 cases of grip at Amesbury, Mass.

There is a dearth of teachers in Boston public schools.

Lewis Leach fell from a moving train near Somerville and was badly injured.

Waltham bank officers will grant no extension of time to Asbury Temple people.

The residence of Mrs. M. N. Arnold at North Adams was destroyed by fire. Loss, $10,000.

The Massachusetts Young Women's Christian association will convene at Waltham Feb. 22.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The house considered the naval appropriation bill and devoted the day to general debate, and authorizes the construction of three line of battle ships and 12 torpedo boats. The senate confined itself strictly to business, and as a result passed the post-office appropriation bill and got half through the agricultural appropriation bill. Efforts were resumed to cut down the rentals for postal cars and for the eastern fast mail service, north and south, but all these amendments were defeated by decisive majorities.

Armenian Matter in Commons.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—In the house of commons the government was asked if it were aware that Mussulmans in the Pashalic of Murash were terrorizing the Armenians of that district. Sir Edward Grey replied that the attention of the porte had been called by Ambassador Currie to the state of affairs there, and that the porte had promised to have an inquiry made into the matter.

In Standard Oil Interests.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The Standard Oil contingent yesterday succeeded in obtaining control of the Chicago Gas Light and Coke company. Ever since the injunction against voting the proxies to the Fidelity Trust company of Philadelphia, Robert T. Lincoln and his friends have been trying to get into the directory of the company. Mr. Lincoln is slated for the presidency.

For $1000 a Side.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—W. J. Arkell and Frank T. Morrill have made arrangements for a hundred-mile race between the steam yachts Vamoose and Judge for $1000 a side. The race will take place on the Sound in June. It is probable that the Yankee Doodle may be entered, and make it a three-cornered race.

Clinching the Matter.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Existing Chinese regulations have been revised so as to require Chinese laborers making application to custom officers for certification of their identification papers to state the place in the United States from which they are to make their exit from the country.

La Touraine at Gibraltar.

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 16.—Steamer La Touraine, which sailed from New York Feb. 6, on a winter excursion to Mediterranean ports, reports having encountered a very rough passage. She made no stop at the Azores, on account of the severe weather. All on board are well.

Mysterious Murder.

GROVERSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 16.—James J. Jamison, 16 years old, was murdered last night in a barn. Who fired the fatal shots has not been learned. Several persons were in the barn at the time, but they declare that they heard no shots fired.

Wickes Didn't Fight It.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Laura H. Wickes has obtained a decree of divorce from her husband, vice president of the Pullman Palace Car company. Wickes made no defense whatever. He was charged with extreme cruelty.

Considered $3500 Too Little.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Amos Rusie is out with a statement that he did not ask the New York club, in consideration of his services as a ball player, for $5000 next year. He was offered $3600, but declined to accept that amount.

Preparing a Protest.

AUGUSTA, Feb. 16.—At the annual meeting of the Maine Bar association Charles F. Libby of Portland was elected president. Steps were taken to remonstrate against the repeal of the law prohibiting judges from sitting in review on their own cases.

Sentenced For Manslaughter

SALEM, Feb. 16.—F. C. Hunt and J. L. Johnson, convicted of manslaughter, were sentenced to 20 years each in state prison for killing J. T. Crosby. Frank Little was held on a charge of breaking and entering and carrying a dangerous weapon.

Drank Carbolic Acid.

STAMFORD, Conn., Feb. 16.—The body of Miss Minnie E. Hawley of Brooklyn was found yesterday on a lonesome outskirt of this place. She had taken carbolic acid. The young woman had long been suffering from melancholia.

Two Weeks Overdue.

NEW LONDON, Feb. 16.—Much anxiety is felt for the schooner Emma J. Meyers, from Charleston for this port with lumber, which is now more than two weeks overdue.

Embezzlement Charged.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—John C. Macgowan, 28 years old, bookkeeper for the Quinnipiac Fertilizing company until yesterday, is under arrest on a charge of embezzling $1690 at various times from the company.

Strikers on Parade.

HAVERHILL, Feb. 16.—Five hundred strikers, including many women, paraded the principal streets last night, headed by a band. Sympathizers along the line of march sent up fireworks.

Fireman Moody Will Die.

LYNN, Feb. 15.—There is no new hope entertained for the recovery of Abraham C. Moody, who was injured at the Munroe street fire. He has been connected with the department 15 years.

Took Thirty-Six Ballots.

GLOUCESTER, Feb. 16.—The Gloucester board of aldermen last night elected Alderman Favor president on the 36th ballot.

Vessel Ablaze at Sea.

HAVRE, Feb. 16.—Steamer Topaze, from Savannah, reports that when in lat. 49 N., lon. 17 W., she sighted a vessel, about 150 feet long, on fire. There was no sign of life on board the burning vessel.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—The Irish Parliamentary party adopted a resolution regretting the death of Eugene Kelly of New York, the sympathizer with the cause of the Irish Nationalists.

Will Collect the Income.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The district court of appeals declined to grant an appeal from the decision of the lower court, refusing an injunction to prevent the collection of the income tax.

Not Satisfactory to Employes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The employes of the Southern railway have rejected the wage schedule offered to them by the company and will make counter propositions.

Peace in Colombia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Minister McKinney at Bogota, Colombia, telegraphs that the revolution is practically ended, and there is no fear of any further trouble.

Oil Warehouse in Flames.

DALLAS, Feb. 16.—Waters Pierce Oil company's warehouse, containing 600,000 gallons of oil, is on fire.

CASTLE CAR.

When I walked into Mudbury one stormy December night, I had almost touched bottom. I was soaked to the skin. My limbs were heavy, stiff from exposure and tired from exertion.

What was I doing at Mudbury? Looking for an engagement, of course. Business had been awfully bad, and misfortune had followed me in whatsoever direction I turned. I was hard hit, I can tell you. When I pushed open the door of the Grapes, I was wrapped about with a wet blanket in a double sense.

I was in the bar parlor, lingering over a cup of tea—the small quantity of food, which was all my purse would allow me, I had not been able to linger over—when the sound of a banjo close at hand attracted my attention. Looking round to discover the player, I saw, close at my elbow, a young man in a dark suit of fashionable tweed and wearing a flame colored scarf adorned with a showy pin of fantastic design.

"Na, lads, howd tha' noise!" shouted a full, deep voice from a snug seat by the fire as the banjoist struck up a lively air, and by help of a great deal of slamming worked through a "coonie patter" of the lower music hall stamp.

Seized with a sudden impulse, I begged the loan of the instrument, and bowing to the room sang a favorite song of mine, "Love and Truth," selecting it as a contrast to the specimen we had just listened to. I am a good singer, I will modestly admit, and the song was a choice one. I was pleased to note that besides impressing the company it brought both landlady and barmaid into the room.

The song ended, I sat down. A low rumbling began over by the window and immediately swelled into a loud tumult.

The company clamored for an encore.

"Gentlemen," I said, "you must excuse me. I have an appointment to keep. It will not detain me long, and on my return I shall be happy to oblige you."

"Mr. Vincent's engaged and says he can't possibly see yer. No use," said the unsympathetic doorkeeper, glancing at the papers which I extended toward him. "He'd only chuck 'em at my bloomin 'ead an tell me I was somethin unparliamentry. When Charlie Vincent says 'No,' he don't wrop it up nice for yer. Yer don't want to ask fer another."

"Oh, managers always shake their heads and frown at the great unknown," I replied, with a fine assumption of carelessness, immediately adding in a coaxing voice, "You'll take these papers in to Mr. Vincent, like a good fellow?" I gained my point, but alas—

"He won't listen to nothin, and he won't look at nothin," was the reply. "He's like the Irishman's pig, yer can neither drive him, nor lead him, nor make him stand still. But there," added my friend, noticing the look of dejection which my features unmistakably assumed, "yer see the comp'ny's all booked fer Crissmas, and Mr. Vincent's that busy with hearsals an cetrar, he's been a-sleepin here sin' Sunday."

My last hope had failed me. The blow stunned me. What should I do? Do? Why, go back to the Grapes, of course. Wasn't there an audience there impatiently awaiting me?

The worst had come, and reckless of fate I bade defiance to it. I meant to sing and—beg!

In this mood I re-entered the Grapes.

"Song! Song!" shouted several voices as I made my way into the room.

Bowing my acknowledgments and accepting the ready assistance of the banjo, I started off without prelude or apology with "Castlehar," a roaring, rattling "comic," which I had written and composed some weeks previously, but had never tried upon a public audience.

Abandoning myself utterly to the mad humor of the thing, I sang with a verve and vigor which swept the audience clean off their feet.

The song was received with enthusiasm and provoked the most tremendous demonstrations of delight. When I came to a stop cries of "'core" resounded from all sides. I had to go through the whole business again ab initio, the company taking in the chorus with hearty good will and singing lustily.

People crowded in from the bar, and among the men in the doorway I saw distinctly the face of the manager of the Prince's.

When at last I was permitted to sit down, Mr. Vincent came forward, and tapping me on the shoulder intimated a desire to speak to me outside. Mrs. Boniface requested us to consider her parlor at our service.

"Look here," said the manager, coming to the point at once, "my name's Vincent—Vincent of the Prince's. I don't know who you are or what you are, but I think you'll do for a 'turn,' and if you'll sing that song in my 'house' every night while the 'Pant's' on I'll give you £9 a week."

"Make it two ten," said I in the flush of victory. "The footlights are old acquaintances of mine."

Charles Vincent, Esq., honored me with a prolonged stare.

"Done," said he. "Call tomorrow, 12 o'clock."

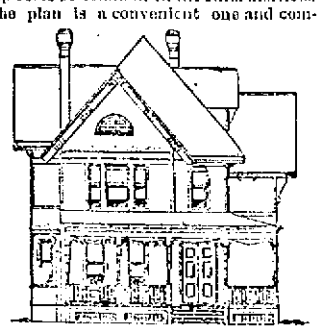

"Done it is," I replied promptly.

And "Castlehar," encored "five times," filled the Mudbury theater for 13 weeks. —Good Company.

DESIGN FOR A SUBURBAN HOME.

Elegant and Commodious Country Residence—Costs $3,650.

This design is that of a residence built in the suburbs of New York for a family of means. The building stands on an eminence, with the ground sloping from the house in all directions, which, with the broken gables, broad veranda and porch, judicious arrangement of the windows, etc., gives a very attractive and picturesque appearance to the building, quite in contrast to the old fashioned mansard and hip roofs so common in the rural districts. The plan is a convenient one and comprises a hall, dining room and large library separated from the front parlor by sliding doors, which can be kept open and closed at pleasure. At the rear of the house are the kitchen, back stairs, pantry, storeroom and back porch, with steps leading to the back yard. In front is a broad veranda with steps.

seasoned lath. The side walls and ceilings of all other rooms and closets are hard finished on two coats of brown mortar. Neat centerpieces are placed in the hall, parlor, dining room and library. The chimneys are of hard brick laid in lime mortar to the roof, from thence in cement mortar. The range opening and facings of breast of chimney are laid in pressed brick neatly pencilled. The opening is spanned by a rubbed bluestone lintel. The openings of all other fireplaces are built of hard brick, the openings spanned by 1½ by 3 wrought iron bars.

The roofs, gables and portions of the outside walls are shingled over waterproof paper and seven-eighths surfaced sheathing boards. The entire side walls of the lower story and portions of the second story are clapboarded with 6 inch beveled white pine siding. Shishings, linings of gutters, valleys and roofs of verandas are covered with M. Paper.

The floor of attics is of dry 7/8 by 3 tongued and grooved spruce, the floors of veranda and porch of 1¼ white pine; all other floors of 7/8 by 3 yellow pine, blind nailed. The kitchen, bathroom and pantry, treads and risers of front and back stairs of yellow pine, all other is the woodwork of whitewood.

The woodwork of kitchen and pantry filled and varnished in natural color of wood. The woodwork of hall and dining room stained to imitate antique oak; finish of parlor and library stained mahogany. The woodwork of bathroom and stairs finished same as kitchen. All other inside

LENTEN SERVICES.

The several Protestant Episcopal churches have arranged their order of services for Lent, which begins Ash Wednesday, February 27, and continues until Easter, April 14.

The schedule of services at Trinity has been arranged so that opportunity will be afforded to every member of the parish to attend. There will be morning prayer Wednesdays and Fridays at 11 o'clock; Holy Communion Tuesdays at 8 A. M. and Thursdays at 11 A. M.; evening prayer Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 4:30, and Fridays at 8 o'clock. Tuesday afternoons Mr. Schuyler will deliver a course of lectures on "English Church History," and Thursday afternoons the rector will give instructions on "Some Articles of Religion." Friday evenings there will be brief meditations on "Helps to Christian Life." Sunday evenings in Trinity Church, leaving out the first Sunday in March and April, when the service is choral, there will be sermons on "The Christian in his family, in his business, in the parish, and in society."

The Lenten services at St. George's will be announced by cards, by Ash Wednesday. The Ash Wednesday services will be the celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 A. M., service and sermon at 10:30 A. M., and evening service and sermon at 7:30 P. M. Special sermons will be preached, probably by clergymen from outside the city, on Tuesday evenings.

A course of sermons on the Beatitudes will be delivered by Rev. E. H. Porter on Quinquagesima Sunday and the Sundays in Lent, at the morning service at Emmanuel Church, the dates and subjects being as follows: February 24, "The Poor in Spirit;" March 3, "They that Mourn;" March 10, "The Meek;" March 17, "The Hungry and Thirsty;" March 24, "The Merciful;" March 31, "The Pure in Heart;" April 7, "The Peacemakers." The confirmation lectures will begin on Quinquagesima Sunday evening, after evening service. Services will be held on Ash Wednesday at 11:30 A. M. and 7:30 P. M.

During Lent, at the Zabriskie Memorial Church of St. John the Evangelist there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion every morning at 7:30, evening prayer Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:30 P. M., and Friday evenings at 7:30.

Union services will be held during the Lenten season in the various churches on Wednesday evenings. The first of the series will be held in Trinity Church Wednesday evening, March 6, at 8 o'clock, when Rev. Alexander Mann of Orange, N. J., is expected to preach the sermon. Others in the series announced are at Emmanuel Church, Wednesday, March 13, and at St. John's Church, Wednesday, March 27, when Rev. Dr. W. B. King of Christ Church, Cambridge, Mass., will preach.

THAMES STREET METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church was held last evening, Rev. S. O. Benton, presiding elder, presiding. The following officers were elected:

Stewards—Charles H. Seattle, William H. Crandall, Joshua B. Bachelier, John J. Carry, John B. Mason, Charles S. Sherman, George W. Tozier, Thomas S. Bowler, James G. Albro, 2d., James P. Marden, Edward W. Young, Samuel T. H. Allman.

Trustees—Isaac W. Sherman, Edward W. Young, Augustin C. Titus, Frow B. Garnett, Seth Swinburne, Charles D. Martin, T. Fred Kaul, John Gilpin.

Recording Steward—Charles H. Seattle.

District Steward—William H. Crandall.

The conference asked for the return of Rev. H. B. Cady for another year of service as pastor of the church.

"THE POWER OF GOLD."

Walter Sanford's dramatic production "The Power of Gold," was presented at the Opera House last evening before only a fair sized audience. The play is a story of life in England, with many melodramatic features and striking scenic effects. The drama was worked out in an interesting manner, and gave general satisfaction. The cast included Frederick Summerfield, as Hadgi Zambra, a cosmopolitan adventurer; Barry Johnstone, as Paul Judson, a mechanical engineer; E. T. Stetson, as Mark Harley, a thief; Carl Scranton, as Sammy Smudge, a butcher's boy with "hambitious 'opes of being an Hem Doc;" Hannah M. Ingham, as Meg Judson, Paul's wife; Grace Lyndon, in a triple role, as Lady Brandon, Mary Clark and Nancy Dorman; Mollie Revel, as Norah Donnelly, and Mary Lynton, as Sister Marie. The special scenery included several set pieces, among them excellent representations of the garret of a London tenement house, the foundling asylum in St. Hilda's lane, the madhouse, and the drawing room in Lady Brandon's London mansion.

LOCAL BRIEFS

—Steamer General resumed her trips this morning.

—Mr. A. H. Sayles of Pascoag is in town for a few days.

—Rev. G. J. Magill has returned from a week's visit in New York.

—Mrs. Julia Bailey entertained at whist last evening at her home on Bull street.

—Misses Annie and Lottie Wilson are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Brewster, in Norwich, Conn.

—Rev. E. H. Howe, D. D., of Longwood, Mass., will officiate at Emmanuel Church tomorrow.

—Manager G. H. Wilmarth of the Newport Base Ball Club is in New York, looking for players for the team.

—Messrs. Hugh K. Norman, F. M. Hoyt and H. Ray Miller have been elected members of the New York Yacht Club.

—News has been received of the recent death in New York of Leonard Kip, infant son of Philip Kip Reinlander.

—The freight boats of the Fall River line today made Fall River their terminus, the ice being well broken up in Mount Hope bay.

—Messrs. A. A. Tilley & Co. are making alterations to their market on Broadway, and have placed a cashier's office in the front store.

—Mr. and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden will not occupy "Fair Lawn" next season, and it is supposed that they will spend the summer abroad.

—Rev. H. N. Jeter will go to Providence Monday to attend an important ministers' conference, and thence to New York for a week's visit.

—At the 6 o'clock meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association tomorrow, Rev. Isaac Newton Phelps will speak, and there will be special music.

—Steamer City of Newport arrived about on time yesterday, and is now running regularly to Providence, the ice making little difference to her trips.

—Mr. T. Pratt Howard, agent and landscape gardener for the Newport Nursery Company, has gone to Narragansett Pier to begin work on Mr. Slevin's estate.

—Sixty-one hens and chickens out of eighty-nine were killed by dogs in the slaughter house on Long lane, last night. They were the property of a Portuguese.

—The children of Light Keeper Curtis of Rose Island, who attend school in Newport, have remained in the city since Monday, on account of the ice in the bay.

—Miss Mary Canavan, an important witness in the coming Anthony trial, has returned from Pawtucket, where she was obliged to go on account of illness.

—Mr. S. S. Thompson has enlarged and improved his grocery store on Broadway by taking into the front store a room in the rear and enlarging his show window on the north side.

—Mr. John T. Allan, for business reasons alone, has been compelled to decline the office of warder, to which he was recently elected by Washington Commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar.

—Rev. Charles Paulson will occupy the pulpit at the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow. He has been in Providence, attending a series of meetings during the week.

—Tug Nottingham brought three large coal barges from New York this morning, one of which is discharging for the Old Colony company, while the others have gone to Providence.

—Miss McAllister, a public school teacher, who went to her home in Calais, Me., on account of illness, will, upon advice of her physician, refrain from teaching again for at least one year.

—The repairs to the steam pipes at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, made necessary by the recent severely cold weather, have been completed, and the usual services, interrupted last week, will be resumed tomorrow.

—Mr. G. Wilkinson Wagner, the landscape architect who has been making plans and designs of Newport estates, will go to New York tonight, to consult with owners of summer places here regarding improvements.

—Mrs. Lorillard Spencer is a member of the committee from the Society for the Improvement of Public Schools, appointed to wait upon Mayor Strong of New York to urge him to appoint women as school commissioners.

—Mr. Percy R. Pyne, brother-in-law of Mr. Henry A. C. Taylor, died in Rome, Italy, Thursday. He was one of the best-known of New York's business men, and was identified with many railroads, banks and trust companies, and years ago was a member of the house of Moses Taylor & Co.

—At the Swedish evensong service in Kay Chapel tomorrow, at 8 P. M., Rev. Mr. Hedman will preach a special sermon on the subject: "Can Bible authority be produced in favor of confirmation; and, if so, why is confirmation mutilated or rejected by Christians claiming the Bible as their authority?"

—Mr. James P. Sisson, formerly a conductor on the street railway, has been appointed superintendent of grain in the stables of New York's street cleaning department. Mr. and Mrs. Sisson have been in New York about two weeks. Mr. Sisson was formerly in the employ of Colonel Waring in this city.

—A confirmation class of seven members was formed last evening at the residence of Rev. John Hedman, pastor of the Scandinavian Mission of Trinity Church. The class will meet Friday evenings at Mr. Hedman's residence, 81 Church street, and the English, Swedish and Norwegian languages will be used as mediums of instruction.

—There was an alarm from box 42 at 6:20 o'clock last evening, for a fire in the estate on William street occupied by Edward Hughes. The fire was started by a kerosene lamp on a table, which ignited a curtain; the curtain set fire to some clothes on fire; the clothing was thrown outdoors and ignited the outside back stairway. The damage was about $5, covered by insurance, and the emergency force did the work of extinguishing the blaze.

—The members of Steam Fire Engine Company No. 5 gave their first social last evening, in Odd Fellows' Hall. The committee of arrangements consisted of Assistant Foreman Theodore H. Bliss, Fireman Phineas C. Clarke and Hosemen George W. Tilley, Charles H. Chase and Henry S. Bliss. Theodore H. Bliss was floor manager, and Messrs. George W. Tilley and Henry S. Bliss were assistants in directing the dancing. The Naval Station orchestra furnished music, Mr. W. H. Allen prompting.

ASSAYING THE COINS.

The important work of assaying the samples of gold and silver coined during the year at the various mints throughout the country has been begun at the mint in this city, under the direction of Director of Mints Preston. This is done by a commission appointed by the President, whose members, before beginning the task, qualified before Judge William Butler. In order to facilitate the work, which is expected to take several days, the commission was divided up into committees, one on counting, one on assaying, and one on weighing. The coins which will be assayed are those which have been taken from every delivery of gold and silver made at the several mints, and forwarded to Washington, where they were kept until the close of the year, and then shipped to the mint at this city. The coins were first counted, and then followed the assaying and weighing, to determine if the various issues were of the proper weight and standard of fineness. When this is done the commission will make its report to the Secretary of the Treasury.—[Philadelphia Times.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. and Mrs. Willard S. Brayton went to Fall River yesterday, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Manchester, Mrs. Brayton's grandmother, who had lived to a great age.

Mrs. M. C. Fales of Brookline, Mass., has been guest for several days of Mrs. Edward Almy on Union street.

Mr. John S. Rogers, sanitary inspector of Providence, whose sudden death was announced yesterday, spent several years of his youth in this town.

The meetings at the Methodist Episcopal Church, conducted by Mrs. Leger, are expected to close Sunday evening. Mrs. Leger will preach at the church this evening, and there will be no service at the Mission in consequence.

Miss Fannie P. Dennis left for the South last evening, where she intends to spend several weeks. She will be guest of Hon. Daniel G. and Mrs. Sunderland of Pelham, S. C.

THE BRISTOL FERRY LIGHTHOUSE.

During the very high tide and gale Friday morning of last week, the Bristol Ferry lighthouse was well washed by salt water and battered by ice in large blocks. The cellar was filled to the floors with water, and the kitchen and other rooms on the same floor were flooded. The keeper's family were obliged to stay on the second floor until the tide went down. Keeper Sherman placed a number of planks about the lighthouse in order to pass back and forth. The stores in the cellar, consisting of vegetables and other eatables, were destroyed by the salt water. The rip-rap sea wall on the south side of the lighthouse was torn by the heavy rollers, and the line wall on the east side of the house was completely torn down by the great mass of moving ice. The damage was considerable. It took nearly two days to pump the water out of the cellar after the storm. The keeper and his family were obliged to go to Captain William West's residence near by to take their meals that day, as their stock of provisions was ruined.

"A RUN ON THE BANK."

"A Run on the Bank," the new farce-comedy by Charles E. Blaney, author of "A Rail-road Ticket" and "A Summer Blizzard," will receive its first presentation in this city Monday evening. What little plot there is in the play revolves around two men who rent a place for the purpose of starting a barroom. They name it "The Bank," and the unsuspecting people are supposed to regard it as a real banking establishment. The proprietors grasp the situation and the dollars as well. A run on the concern finally comes, and the depositors are paid back in bogus money. Then there is trouble. The skit is said to be bright and very funny, with catching lines and novel and original situations. John Ward and Harry Vokes, for whom the play was written, are bright and amusing comedians, and will have the assistance of a large company of singers, dancers and comedians.

THE NEW ARMY RIFLE.

A test of the new Krag-Jorgensen rifle with which it is proposed to equip the army, has been made within a few days at Willet's Point, New York, the United States engineer station, under the direction of Captain W. M. Black. The results were satisfactory. All kinds of targets were used in order to ascertain the penetrative ability of the bullets. Pine boards an inch thick were fastened together until a thickness of fifty inches was obtained. A number of shots were fired at this, two of which went entirely through the target. None of the shots penetrated less than three feet. Oak planks were then used, and the bullets sank into the wood to a depth of thirty-two inches. The balls made a clean cut through iron plates two-thirds of an inch thick. The effect on these bullets was found to be quite different from that on other bullets. The Springfield bullet, for instance, is flattened out when it comes in contact with any hard substance, but retains its shape when fired into sand. The Krag Jorgensen bullet is completely wrecked in sand. A shot was fired at a wall built of concrete. The bullet passed through it and was only slightly marred. A bullet fired at thin iron plates an inch apart passed through one plate after another until it melted.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
